Jaworski lashes Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski says President Nixon is trying to "make a farce" of the charter guaranteeing the prosecutor's independence and his right to subpoena Watergate evidence from White House files.

Jaworski's challenge to the President's willingness to accept the prosecutor's independence was disclosed Monday shortly after U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered Nixon to obey a subpoena from the special prosecutor's office demanding tapes of 64 conversations sought as evidence in the Watergate cover-up trial.

After the order, Vice President

Gerald R. Ford said the White House should turn over any tapes "relevant to a criminal proceeding," but Nixon counsel James D. St. Clair said the White House would appeal Sirica's decision.

Meanwhile, U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell began hearing requests from defendants in the White House plumbers case for access to files that might support their contention they were working on a legitimate national security matter. J. Fred Buzhardt, White House counsel, was scheduled to appear before Gesell to testify whether material sought by the defendants exists.

On Capitol Hill, the House Judiciary

Committee scheduled another day of hearing evidence in closed session. Members were expected to listen to the tape of a March 13, 1973, presidential conversation with John W. Dean III and H. R. Haldeman.

Jaworski disclosed details of his latest clash with the White House in a strongly worded letter to Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

At the request of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a Judiciary Committee member, Eastland scheduled an executive session of the panel for 2:30 p.m. EDT today and asked St. Clair and Jaworski to stand by if called to testify.

Jaworski told Eastland that in opposing the cover-up trial subpoena, St. Clair had said "it is the President's contention that he has ultimate authority to determine when to prosecute, whom to prosecute, and with what evidence to prosecute."

"The crucial point is that the President, through his counsel, is challenging my right to bring an action against him to obtain evidence, or differently stated, he contends that I cannot take the President to court," the prosecutor said.

That position, said Jaworski, would make "a farce" of his charter and would render its guarantee of the right to take the President to court "an idle and empty one."

In his order directing the President to give him the subpoenaed material to determine whether it is relevant to the cover-up trial, Sirica specifically rejected what he called the President's "attempt to abridge the special prosecutor's independence."

Sirica said the need for evidence for the trial was "if anything, more compelling ... since the matter has developed into a criminal trial" than in the case last Aug. 29, when he ordered Nixon to turn over tapes for evidence for the Watergate grand jury.

In the earlier case, the U.S. Court of Appeals upheld Sirica's order and (Please turn to page 3)

Nixon facing another House panel subpoena

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is facing a new subpoena threat from the House Judiciary Committee unless he agrees to turn over tapes and other material relating to the dairy fund and ITT matters.

The White House promised to reply Monday to the committee's April 19 request for the material, but sent word last night it would respond today. Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., has said he will seek a subpoena if the evidence is not forthcoming.

Nixon also must reply Wednesday to an earlier committee subpoena for 11 Watergate tapes.

Nixon's deepening tape troubles overshadowed today's resumption of the Judiciary Committee's impeachment hearings, now zeroing in on the crucial March 1973 stage of the Watergate cover-up.

The committee, continuing in closed session despite White House demands that hearings be opened, is expected to hear today a tape of a March 13, 1973, presidential conversation with John W. Dean III and onetime White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman.

The panel will then hear — today if time permits or otherwise on Wednesday — a tape of Nixon's March 21, 1973, conversation with Dean, his former White House counsel.

The March 21 conversation, during which Nixon and Dean discussed the payment of money to convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt to keep him quiet, is regarded by some members as the key to whether Nixon will be linked to the cover-up.

Also important to Nixon's chances of avoiding impeachment, however, is his response to the committee's subpoena on Wednesday, and any new ones that may be issued.

"It is going to be difficult for anyone to vote to exonerate him if he doesn't produce what we think is necessary," Rep. Tom Railsback of Illinois, an influential GOP member, told newsmen. "I've been trying to get that message through."

Nixon notified the committee two weeks ago he would not give it any more Watergate material. The committee has requested 76 Watergate tapes and is expected to issue subpoenas for the others as the need arises during the presentation of evidence.

Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., who keeps close ties to the White House, said he thought Nixon again might offer the committee edited transcripts instead of tapes, a course he followed April 29 in response to a committee subpoena for 42 Watergate conversations.

Wiggins added, however, that he hoped Nixon also would supply tapes of key parts of any conversation to help the committee understand them. He said tapes the committee has heard of conversations covered in the White House transcripts benefit Nixon.

The expletives deleted are much milder than anyone imagined and the general tone conveys an impression of casual, off-hand conversation, not the seemingly intense ones indicated by the transcripts, he said.

Magruder sentenced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder, the No. 2 man in President Nixon's reelection campaign, was sentenced today to serve 10 months in prison for helping plan the Watergate break-in, bugging and cover-up.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered that Magruder serve a 10-month to four-year term in a minimum security institution and gave him until June 4 to surrender himself.

Magruder was the first Nixon insider to publicly admit his own involvement in the Watergate case and the first to publicly accuse others in the cover-up.

"My ambition obscured my judgement," Magruder told Sirica in a brief statement. He said he still doesn't know he surrendered "my moral precepts."

"I know what I have done," he said. "I'm confident the country will survive Watergate and Jeb Magruder."

Magruder's lawyer James E. Sharp told the judge that Magruder has already been punished in the 13 months since he first told of his role in Watergate to federal prosecutors.

Magruder was the sixth former White House aide to be sentenced to prison. He pleaded guilty Aug. 16 to a single count of conspiracy to unlawfully intercept communications, to obstruct justice and to defraud the United States of America.

Education bill faces veto if Senate language stays in WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a $24 billion education bill, but it faces many problems in conference with the House and when it reaches President Nixon's desk.

The big issue in the conference will be how far Congress should go in trying to restrict busing for school desegregation purposes.

The House measure passed in March virtually would end such busing. The Senate bill passed 81 to 5 Monday contains the same limitations as the House version, but it adds language continuing the authority of federal courts to order busing if necessary to meet equal rights requirements of the Constitution.

President Nixon views the Senate antibusing provision as much too weak, deploring the failure to lump together most of the education aid money in a revenue-sharing package and assails as a "bureaucratic nightmare" provisions on how the money must be spent. He has said these objections would cause him to veto it.

The principal limitation on busing in both the House and Senate bills is a policy declaration that no child should be bused beyond the next closest school from his home. The added Senate language would permit the courts to disregard this limitation.

The House bill also contains a provision, deleted in the Senate, that would permit reopening of all previously decided busing cases and their redetermination in line with the new restrictions.

Nixon has endorsed the House busing provisions strongly. The Senate bill would continue for four years the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Act, the biggest federal education program, and several other types of grants.

The impacted areas program of aid to districts crowded because of federal installations, such as military bases, would be continued but cut back in some respects. However, it would not be reduced nearly as much as Nixon recommended.

Also extended would be the program of aid for handicapped children, with sharply increased funds, and the adult education program.

Manhunt for SLA members widened

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As lawmen continued their search for Patricia Hearst and William and Emily Harris, the distraught parents of the suspected Symbionese Liberation Army members pleaded with their children to surrender rather than face possible violent death.

With the memory of last Friday's flaming deaths of six SLA members vivid in her mind, Mrs. Betty Bunnell, Harris' mother, said: "All of us just can't bear the thought of seeing anything on film like we saw this past weekend, and to think that it might happen to my son is almost unbearable and I do wish he would give himself up."

Mrs. Harris' father, Frederic Schwartz, flew to Los Angeles from Chicago Monday night to plead with his daughter to surrender to him. In a statement aimed at Emily, 27, Schwartz said, "You have only two choices open now: You may elect to die an equally horrible and totally useless death ... Your other choice is to come forth and live." He offered to meet her and take her to law officers.

And in Hillsborough, Calif., Catherine Hearst, mother of the 20-year-old coed whose kidnapping on Feb. 4 set off the series of events, said, "I hope she will give herself up and come home."

But there was no sign that Miss Hearst or the Harrises, a white couple, were about to give up voluntarily. And more than 100 local, state and federal law officers remained on fulltime duty in search of the three, who are described as "armed and extremely dangerous" and possibly the last remnants of the small band of terrorists.

Law officers said their search for Miss Hearst and the Harrises was still centered in Southern California, although Los Angeles Police Cmdr. Pete Hegan declared, "If they've got any sense, they'd have left. Things are getting hot here."

The three are wanted on FBI complaints, filed Monday, for investigation of illegal use and possession of automatic weapons.

The FBI decision to classify Miss Hearst as an SLA participant capped a wild weekend in which six members of the SLA, including its top leader, Cinque, died after an hour-long gun battle with 500 police at a south Los Angeles hideout.

The FBI said it concluded that Miss Hearst had joined the revolutionary clique which violently kidnaped her 3½ months ago after an 18-year-old youth identified her and the Harrises as the persons who kidnaped him for 12 hours and stole his truck in a getaway from a sporting goods store last Thursday. The FBI said it believed Miss Hearst fired 30 rounds of automatic rifle slugs into the store after Harris allegedly bungled an attempt to shoplift a 49-cent pair of socks.

William Sullivan, an FBI official in Los Angeles, said the bungled shoplifting started police into the rapid series of weekend developments in which they began to close in on the SLA for the first time. "If these people didn't make mistakes, it would be hard as hell to catch them," he said Monday.

Ohio Assembly opens fast-paced session

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Gilligan administration presents its $43.5 million supplemental appropriations bill to the House Finance Committee today to open an expected fast-paced legislative week.

Director John Olsen of the Office of Budget & Management was to be the main witness on the measure which would appropriate anticipated profits from first year operations of the state lottery.

Rep. Myrl H. Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, finance chairman, planned morning and afternoon hearings, followed by a third on Wednesday for consideration of amendments and final action.

Olsen may be called to testify again Wednesday as the Republican-controlled Senate Finance Committee opens its hearings on a GOP measure to appropriate $53 million in additional funds for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Committee Chairman Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, and other Republicans maintain there is a surplus in the state treasury big enough to accommodate their spending proposal.

Olsen and Gov. John J. Gilligan deny the existence of such a surplus. Olsen had not been asked to appear on the GOP bill as of Monday, and an aide quoted him as saying if called, he would like "to know the full implications of what they are proposing."

Dennis has charged that the Gilligan bill is designed as a "pork barrel" in an election year, and otherwise contains "misplaced priorities." He is especially critical because the measure offers no tax relief — which he says the state can now afford.

Bickering on the spending proposals could produce a stalemate between the Democratic House and GOP-controlled Senate, and perhaps ruin their plans for early adjournment around mid-June.

In other action, the Senate votes today on a House-passed bill that would authorize owners of taverns, bars, and carryouts to sell state lottery tickets when they go on sale around mid-August.

They would be among some 10,000 lottery agents who will be licensed by the state to sell the 50-cent tickets, retaining a five per cent commission — or 2½ cents per ticket.

The House could call up for consideration today or Wednesday major Senate amendments to a House-passed bill to regulate abortions in Ohio. The Senate approved the measure last Thursday but only after sweeping changes that deleted a pregnancy timetable for permitting the operations. Instead, the bill limits abortions to physicians and makes them responsible for saving the life of a fetus born alive, if medically possible.

Action also could come this week in the House Rules Committee on a controversial bill to eliminate mayors' courts and create 38 new judgeships throughout the state.

The bill apparently will be assigned to a floor vote, however, only if advocates of mayors' courts believe they have the votes to delete their abolition from the bill.

Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, who wants to keep mayors' courts, said he will vote to move the bill along "because I think we have the votes, they are out there."

He and others defend mayors' courts—which have existed in Ohio since before the Civil War—on grounds that dumping their caseloads on crowded municipal and county courts would be indefensible.

Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, judiciary chairman and the bill's sponsor, claims mayors' courts are essentially money-making devices for local communities which operate automobile "speed traps" and otherwise "go against our system of justice." Those defending them, he asserted, are not willing to bear the political pressures against their elimination.

Senators scheduled a round of 12 committee sessions today through noon Thursday, while the House has 16 on tap during the same period. The Senate committees will hear 43 bills, while 45 are slated for House consideration.

Criminal justice standards for state eyed at meeting

BURR OAK STATE PARK, Ohio (AP)—Five task forces studying a comprehensive set of criminal justice standards for Ohio were to report today during a meeting of the Governor's Criminal Justice Supervisory Commission.

But commission Chairman John V. Corrigan of Cleveland said the group will not finalize its decisions on the standards until after holding public meetings in the fall.

The commission is studying almost 100 top-priority standards drawn from recommendations made by the National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals.

It's part of a multi-year standard setting program, Corrigan said. By 1976, he said, the commission will have accepted, rejected or modified 500 recommendations for improving the criminal justice system.

"The long-term work of the commission in establishing standards will affect Ohio's criminal justice system for years to come," Corrigan said. "Our recommendations will determine whether or not the future will be a safe time in which to live."

The commission is the policy making body for Ohio's $30 million Omnibus Crime Control program, operated by the Department of Economic and Community Development.

The task force reports were to be given at the final session of the three-day meeting, following a luncheon at which the main speaker was to be E. Preston Sharp, executive director of the American Correctional Association.

On Monday a federal attorney told the commission Ohio is tops in the country in analyzing and selecting standards and goals for improving its criminal justice system.

Tom Madden, general counsel for the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said Ohio's study compiling thousands of standards recommended by more than 100 national organizations into a workable

Fighting erupts at Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Fighting erupted on the outskirts of Phnom Penh today for the first time in two weeks, the Cambodian command reported.

The command said Khmer Rouge insurgents attacked a government outpost at Prek Leap, five miles north of the capital on an island at the confluence of the Mekong and Tonle Sap rivers. The command gave no details of the fighting.

On the east bank of the Mekong, a series of attacks was reported around Prek Luong village, Prek Thong, Wat Pun Phnom and Prek Tameak, five to 13 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, the command said.

It said government defenders intercepted a Khmer Rouge infiltration unit in the area and pushed back an insurgent night attack.

Khmer Rouge forces have moved along the eastern Mekong for five months, inflicting substantial losses on government troops in small but bloody clashes.

Elsewhere in Indochina, South Vietnamese forces kept up a major counter-offensive against a North Vietnamese thrust in the strategic "Iron Triangle" 25 miles north of Saigon.

Associated Press reporter Huynh Minh Trinh reported from Ben Cat, which is in the center of the fighting, that government warplanes and heavy artillery struck suspected Communist positions in the village of An Dien, 1½ miles southwest of Ben Cat, which was captured by the North Vietnamese on Friday.

Military sources said government relief columns had not moved into An Dien because some civilians were believed to be trapped there, although field officers said most of the village's 2,000 population had moved out.

The "Iron Triangle" along the Saigon River corridor is a major infiltration route for Communist troops and supplies moving from Cambodia towards the South Vietnamese capital.

Gunfire marks Irish strike; back-to-work move fails

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Protestant strikers opened fire with automatic weapons today on police who tried to dismantle street barricades blocking the flow of traffic into the city.

No injuries were reported in the incident on Connswater street in East Belfast, the first armed confrontation between police and strikers in a Protestant-led general strike now in its seventh day.

In London, Prime Minister Harold Wilson called a special cabinet meeting to discuss the situation in Ulster.

A jeering mob of Protestant militants, meanwhile, punched and screamed abuse at Britain's top trade unionist, Lionel Murray, as he led a peace-making back-to-work march into the giant Harland and Wolff shipyards, the British province's largest industry.

Only about 150 workers joined the march, too few to get the shipyard back into operation.

"The government is not seeking a confrontation, but if it is necessary to take action this will be done," the British secretary of state for Northern Ireland, Merlyn Rees, told parliament Monday.

Farmers dumped thousands of gallons of milk today for want of transport. The few bread stores open in the capital limited buyers to one small loaf. Fruits and vegetables lay rotting in closed grocery stores.

The strike leaders are opposed to an agreement signed last year by Britain, the Belfast government and Ireland to give Dublin a limited voice in Ulster affairs.

Many Protestants fear that the Council of Ireland which the three governments agreed to set up would be a move toward unity with the predominantly Roman Catholic republic to the south.

The extremists called the strike last week to back demands that the proposed council be put to a vote in Ulster, where they are certain it would be defeated. They also want fresh elections to the national assembly in hopes a new assembly would withdraw from the pact.

Britain says, however, the agreement is not negotiable.

FBI shifts wiretap strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a shift of strategy, FBI officials say they're going for quality instead of quantity in their use of wiretaps to catch mobsters.

Asst. FBI Director William Cleveland, in charge of the special investigations division, and Inspector A. A. Staffed say the new approach partially explains the sizeable decrease in court-ordered federal wiretaps and bugs in 1973.

A recent government report showed that last year's federal eavesdropping fell 37 per cent below the 1972 level, while taps and bugs employed by state and local authorities increased 13 per cent.

Cleveland and Staffed discussed wiretap policy in a joint interview.

"The decrease is because of an increase of selectivity in connection with organized crime cases," Cleveland said.

Nothing that the majority of taps concern gambling investigations, Staffed added: "At the outset, we had a different approach. We wanted to clean the thing from top to bottom. As we got some experience, we said let's take the operators. If we get the organized crime man, the lower echelons will go out of business anyway."

He and Staffed said state and local officials may have increased the use of wiretaps because of numerous investigations of police corruption, often stemming from illegal gambling and narcotics operations.

Defective items held

EDINA, Minn. (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has obtained a court order for the seizure of eight cases of allegedly defective rubber condoms.

U.S. marshals stamped defective labels on the cases at the Dean Rubber Co. here Monday. They left the cases, containing 13,824 prophylactics, at the company until either an appeal is made or the U. S. District Court orders the condoms destroyed.

The FDA said the "Peacocks Reddy" prophylactics, produced by the Dean Rubber Co.'s North Kansas City, Mo., office, were seized because "quality falls below that which it is purported to possess." An FDA official said the statement meant the prophylactics "had holes in them."

The FDA said condoms with holes could be ineffective as protection against venereal disease.

A local FDA official said the company will be given time to claim the seized prophylactics and to come up with a plan to recondition them. However, he said he believes there is no way they can be reconditioned.

Brown said the money will be made available after completion of an urban renewal feasibility study.

Temperatures are expected to climb into the upper 70s and the 80s across Ohio Tuesday afternoon under mostly sunny skies, but by late afternoon there is a chance of a few showers or thundershowers over the southwest and extreme west portions of the state as a new low approaches.

A large high pressure area centered along the mid Atlantic coast Tuesday morning was moving slowly eastwards. Winds are becoming more southerly along the west side of the high, bringing the higher temperatures.

An extensive low pressure was building up over the central plains Tuesday morning and this will move eastward during the next couple of days. Humidity will increase and showers will spread eastward across the state tonight and Wednesday. Temperatures are expected to continue warm with overnight lows in the 50s and highs Wednesday in the upper 70s and low 80s.

Hopes high for Mideast agreement

JERUSALEM (AP) — Hopes remain high for a quick agreement to separate the warring Syrian and Israeli forces on the Golan Heights, despite reports that some "extremely complex" details were still to be worked out.

Aides to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said he was planning daily shuttles between the two countries at least until Friday and added that whether a pact is signed or not, Kissinger is returning to Washington next weekend.

United States officials said that for all practical purposes Kissinger had succeeded in working out a disengagement line, but State Department spokesman Robert Anderson told newsmen, "There isn't a line yet."

Anderson commented Monday night after a two-hour meeting in Jerusalem between Kissinger and the Israeli negotiating team.

"There are some minor issues to be resolved, the other collateral issues to go into a disengagement agreement, some of them extremely complex," Anderson said.

Kissinger later met privately with Premier Golda Meir. He scheduled further talks with Israeli leaders today before flying back to Damascus for a ninth round of discussions with President Hafaz Assad of Syria.

Israeli Information Minister Shimon Peres told newsmen he hoped an agreement could be worked out by the end of the week.

Asked if a snag had developed, Peres said: "There are some differences that had been expected, and some that had not been expected."

Earlier, as Kissinger returned to Israel from a four-hour session with Assad, the American diplomat said he and Assad had made "good progress" on several aspects of the hoped-for disengagement.

The main subject of negotiation now is said to be thinning Israeli forces immediately behind a demilitarized zone that would serve as a buffer between the separated armies.

Nursing scholarship program reviewed by hospital board

Financial matters, improvement of facilities and nursing scholarships were discussed at a meeting of the Fayette Memorial Hospital board of trustees Monday.

The board discussed the awarding of scholarships from the Wilbur Welton Memorial Scholarship Fund and decided to grant two scholarships, one for practical nursing and another for a student of a registered nursing school. The grants will be awarded for tuition, books and related expenses, excluding room and board. A maximum amount of $2,000 per year is set on each.

Applications are restricted to Fayette County residents who have been accepted into any accredited two or three-year school of registered nursing, or to the Fayette Memorial Hospital school of practical nursing.

The practical nursing program is one year in length and the scholarship covers tuition related costs for the year. A grant in registered nursing will be continued for two or three years as long as the recipient maintains a record of good academic standing.

APPLICATIONS will be accepted by Robert L. Kunz, hospital administrator, until June 1. The scholarships will be awarded by July 15.

Nixon lashed

Nixon eventually turned over the tapes. Gesell released a letter Monday that he received from the President in which Nixon denied any prior knowledge of the September 1971 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding. The alleged purpose of the mission was to obtain Ellsberg's psychiatric case file.

In the letter, dated April 29, Nixon said he considers leaks of security information such as the Pentagon Papers study "most critical to the national security of the United States and it was my intent, which I believe I conveyed, that the fullest authority of the President under the Constitution and the law should be used if necessary to bring a halt to these disclosures."

Six men were indicted in March on charges of conspiring to violate Fielding's civil rights. They were Ehrlichman, Colson, Felipe De Diego, a Cuban exile living in Miami, and Watergate conspirators G. Gordon Liddy, Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio R. Martinez.

Gesell said he wasn't convinced national security was an issue in the case or that it gave the government a right "to bust into somebody's house and steal their papers."

In other Watergate-related developments:

Former White House Director of Communications Herbert G. Klein said Monday night he gave Nixon a report on public reaction to Watergate, in which he said he found people "very critical" but also "worried about change." Klein spoke to Nixon as both flew back to Washington from Key Biscayne, Fla.

A Harris poll says more people believe former White House counsel Dean about the Watergate cover-up than President Nixon. The poll of 1,555 adults taken nationwide had 45 per cent believing Dean's version to 32 per cent accepting Nixon's word.

A federal judge refused to dismiss a perjury indictment against California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke. Another motion by Reinecke, to have his trial moved to California, also was defeated. Afterwards, Reinecke said in Sacramento: "This is more of a political persecution, a political witchhunt, rather than a real judicial prosecution."

And, Nixon's close friend, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, accused the Senate Watergate committee of trying to humiliate and embarrass him in seeking his personal and financial records.

suggested as one area of the hospital which needs improvement. The board has asked Kunz to investigate the possibilities and costs of such improvement.

An auction of obsolete hospital equipment will be held on the hospital grounds in mid-June. No date has yet been set.

Dr. Ralph Gebhart and Dr. Byers W. Shaw addressed the meeting as representatives of the medical staff to suggest that the board consider expansion of the hospital facilities. Improvements such as an increased number of beds, expanded therapy rooms and extended pharmaceutical laboratories were discussed. A committee is being formed to consider such matters.

The increasing costs of hospital supplies was also discussed. Kunz noted that since Jan. 1 supplies have risen at least five per cent.

He said that the elevation of the minimum wage level to $2 per hour increased hospital costs.

He pointed out that intravenous feeding solution has risen 17 per cent in cost during the past five months, some plastic items have risen as much as 67 per cent and trash hauling service has gone up 40 per cent.

In addition, he noted that the elevation of the minimum wage to $2 per hour has increased the operating cost of the hospital.

Although the matter was not fully analyzed at Monday's meeting, it seems apparent that the hospital will soon be raising its rates for rooms and services.

Hospital statistics for April showed that there were 348 admissions, a total of 2,110 in-patient days, yielding an average of 70.33 persons in the hospital each day.

By department there was 80.84 per cent occupancy of the hospital, 92.61 per cent in the medical and surgical division, 51.11 per cent in coronary care units, 45.55 per cent in pediatrics, and 45.12 per cent in obstetrics.

The average stay of hospital patients was 6.45 days, and 7.71 in the medical and surgical division, 2.55 in the coronary units, 3.03 in pediatrics, and 3.66 days in obstetrics.

There were 927 x-rays taken, 4,493 laboratory tests conducted, 1,202 patients treated in the emergency room, 326 sessions in physical therapy, 608 treatments of respiratory therapy, 79 major operations and 98 minor operations.

The average revenue per patient-day to date has been $73.58. The figure used when creating the budget for the year was $69.72. The national average is $104.49, Kunz said.

Cost to the hospital per patient-day has averaged $73.74. A figure of $70.34 was anticipated in the budget, and the national average is $103.00.

The cost per admission for their entire stay has averaged $446.60. The anticipated figure was $438.13 and the national average is $766.76.

There is an average of 2.6 hospital employees per patient at all times.

Southern Ohio set for 17-year cicada

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — This is the year of the 17-year cicada, the damaging insect you may call the 17-year locust.

Thirteen Ohio counties are due visits from the cicada and already its buzzing song is being heard in the woods, the prelude to egg-laying and damage to trees and fruit.

In reporting the pending plague, Dr. Richard Miller of the Ohio State University Agricultural Extension Service listed Hamilton, Butler, Warren, Clinton, Fayette, Ross, Pike, Scioto, Lawrence, Gallia, Brown, Adams and Highland counties as the cicada targets.

"There's no real way of telling the damage," said Dr. Miller, "but it probably will run into the thousands of dollars."

"We get damage in two ways. We get the damage from the egg-laying female, who lays her eggs in the twigs of trees and shrubs, particularly hardwoods."

"The female opens gashes in the twigs in laying the eggs from the tip back 18 inches. The branch dies later. Or on young fruit trees the cicada may kill its growth."

"Then the young cicada after hatching burrows into the ground attaches itself to the roots of the tree for 17 years before it emerges. The trees lose vigor and don't thrive well as a result of thousands of cicadas feeding on the tree sap."

The number of cicadas, Dr. Miller said, will run into the millions.

"It's not uncommon for the cicada to shed its skin and have three or four thousand skins at the base of one tree," he said.

This year's invasion of the 17-year cicada isn't the big one. In 1982, entomologists forecast, the entire eastern half of Ohio, from Lake Erie to the Ohio River, will be plagued by the insect, and in 1987 the entire western half of Ohio.

You can tell the 17-year cicada by its roof-like transparent wings with orange veins, said Dr. Miller.

If you want to protect shrubs or small trees during the two weeks or so the plague will last before it disappears for another 17 years, he said, cover the plants with cheese cloth or netting with squares a quarter inch or less.

And, don't confuse the 17-year variety with the two-year cicada, a green one twice as big as the former insect, even if they sound alike.

Libel suit filed in union battle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two former employees of Council 21, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, filed a $15 million libel suit against the union Monday, charging their reputations have been damaged by false and malicious statements.

Herschel M. Sigall and James C. Ervin, both now with the Communications Workers of America, filed the suit in Franklin County Common Pleas Court against the AFSCME and William S. Van Zandt, trustee of Council 21, the union's state employees division.

Army ROTC was established at Ohio State in 1916.

Kiwanis Club names Foster as president

The board of directors of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club met Monday night at the Lafayette Inn and considered an extensive agenda, including the selection of officers for the 1974-75 year.

Serving the club as president, beginning Oct. 1, will be Guy Foster, superintendent of the Miami Trace School District. He replaces George Gibbs, the current president. Grooming for the presidency for 1975-76 will be the president-elect, Duane French.

The election of other officers, possible fund-raising programs, disbursement of funds, and the Christmas Award program were other items considered at the meeting.

Gary Ivers, an officer of the Buckeye Auto Association, was present to suggest that the club sponsor a midjet auto race as a fund-raising project. The proposal will be considered in more depth at a later meeting.

Money was voted to various area youth groups, including the Washington Senior High and Miami Trace American Field Service chapters, $35 each; the bicycle safety rodeo, $50 for awards and prizes; and the Boy Scouts, $40 to defray expenses of one scout for the troop's Canadian wilderness trip.

A motion was carried to award four scholarships of $200 each to deserving graduating high school seniors. Two students from each high school will receive a scholarship.

It was announced that the Christmas Award program will be held June 3 in the Lafayette Inn. The award to the county's outstanding athlete-scholar, which is co-sponsored by the Kiwanis Club and the Record-Herald, will be presented at the dinner.

Other persons elected to serve in office for the 1974-75 year were Tom Mossbarger, vice president; Bob Tice, treasurer; and Steve Jennings and Bob Angus on the board of directors.

An award for having maintained perfect attendance at meetings for the past seven years was presented to Gerald Begin. Dick Maddux made the presentation.

Era of cheap food at an end in U.S.

CHICAGO (AP) — One way to slow the skyrocketing price of food may be to give butchers laser beams instead of knives, says a marketing professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"The era of cheap food in America is at an end," Dr. Gordon F. Bloom of MIT said in an interview after addressing a conference on world hunger.

He said innovative measures such as cutting meat with laser beams rather than knives may be a few years away, but that such moves designed to increase efficiency in the food industry are among the few remaining ways to stem rising food costs.

He said attempts to unionize what used to be low-paid, migratory field hands, 15 to 20 per cent increases in retail labor costs and consumer and environmental legislation had combined with increased marketing costs and higher farm income to drive food prices up 20 per cent in 1973.

Bloom said supermarkets in particular have been slow to develop new technology to lower labor costs which, he said, take 50 cents of every food dollar spent after the product leaves the farm.

Supermarket operations, except for the self-service aspect, are essentially unchanged from the corner grocery store that they began to replace 25 years ago, he said.

The average wage rate among employees from cashiers and stockboys to managers is more than $4 an hour in the supermarket, Bloom said.

"People don't realize this is a high-wage industry. In a few years, it's going to be $6. Yet where is the change in technology? The young grocery clerk still loads shelves by hand."

Bloom suggested that the industry make a cooperative effort to eliminate inefficiencies such as those he said exist in packaging and shipping. He also suggested new ways of cooperation to stimulate innovative cost-saving ideas.

"For example," he said, "Why is it necessary to cut meat from a bone with a knife or a saw? Why can't the butcher use a laser or a sonic beam?"

"There's no panacea for rising food prices. But there are a lot of little things that could have a cumulative effect. The food business is a business of decimal points and an accumulation of a lot of small things ultimately leads to high prices."

Wise move on highway speed

There is a tendency to poke fun at the 55-mile-per-hour highway speed limit imposed by Congress as a fuel conservation measure. Some seek to give the impression that only fuddy-duddies can be expected to poke along at such a pace - that red-blooded American drivers deserve better of the authorities.

This view appears to be based largely on a yen for self-gratification. It does not weigh very heavily in the balance against the two prime reasons for holding to the 55-mph limit.

The most persuasive of these reasons is that lowering highway speeds throughout the nation has demonstrably saved many lives in the short time this has been in effect. That old safety slogan, Speed Kills, is vindicated.

The nub of the matter is that at some small inconvenience to those who prefer going a lot faster than the present limit, more than 1,000 people who would have been highway death victims are still living.

Secondly we have the matter of fuel conservation. The basic argument for reducing highway speeds was to save gasoline in a time of pressing scarcity. The measure did save gasoline. We should continue to use it to save gasoline, in the face of indications that otherwise there will be new shortages.

All in all, it is gratifying that the Senate has sharply rejected a move to get rid of the 55-mile-an-hour maximum.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Oil watchword is 'Be Careful'

Durham, N. H., turned down its opportunity to get an oil refinery. And now, if Sen. Abe Ribicoff is to be accepted as its spokesman, Connecticut is showing queasiness about accepting a proposal to construct a refinery on a shoal in Long Island Sound near the mouth of the Connecticut River.

If things go on this way, New England will always be at the mercy of outside interests insofar as providing for its fuel needs is concerned.

The trouble with New Englanders and Long Islanders is that they want to eat their cake and have it. They want heating oil and gasoline, but they don't want a supposedly unesthetic refinery or some unsightly oil derricks on the horizon. The attitude is: "Let New Jersey's Perth Amboy and Louisiana's Baton Rouge take the grief."

This way of looking at things is nationally divisive, and the time will surely come when the people who live around the Gulf of Mexico will combine to treat New Englanders in a fuel crisis the way the Arabs have treated the U.S. and Western Europe.

Besides, why should it be considered so degrading to live within sight of industrial architecture? A modern refinery need not be dirty or un-beautiful.

clutter and other signs of the human organism at work. It was with a great sense of freedom that I managed to wangle assignments to ride around Robert Young's Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad empire and to visit the coal mine country where labor leader Phil Murray had spent his young manhood. I felt I was renewing contact with the human condition.

The ideal of the new environmentalist is to keep modern man penned up in a completely antiseptic suburbia from which all evidence of work, the curse of Adam, is banished. But it is in the antiseptic suburbs that the sons and daughters of the affluent middle class become bored to death.

A world in which the evidence of toil is kept out of sight spawns our campus revolutionaries, our hippies, our armies of so-called liberation, our heroin addicts. If our environment were more of a mixture, the revolutionary children would have their daily reminder that life is sustained only by work, and their need to seek out something more enlivening than a country club landscape would not seem so compelling.

SOMETHING far more subtle than a need for refined oil products should impel those reluctant New Englanders to accept a refinery or two and to permit drilling in their coastal waters. They need to return to the human race.

They don't necessarily have to risk the pollution of their waters, either. It was just a couple of weeks ago that I was swimming from an Israeli beach in the Gulf of Aqaba. In the distance one could see a big oil tanker that was discharging its cargo into a pipeline at a deepwater dock in Eilat.

I asked how it was that the oil traffic did not defile the magnificently clear and pure water in which I was swimming. The answer was: "We're careful."

Americans can't isolate themselves from the sources of their living. They have got to have factories and mines and refineries and oil wells. Sen. Ribicoff had better seek a solution to the real problem, which is to instill in his constituency the need to accept such a thing as a new refinery, and also to do it with insistence on all the new wrinkles of modern safety engineering.

If the Israelis can combine an oil port with good swimming, the same thing can be done in New England. Just "be careful."

Murders, drug ring are linked

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland police say Lonnie Smith may have been killed in a battle for control of the city's narcotics traffic.

Smith, 47, and a woman friend, 26-year-old Rita Fordyce, were found slain Monday in an East Side apartment.

Police said Smith's death is believed to be the fifth linked to a heroin war that began last December.

Narcotics detectives said Smith was taking in at least $4,000 a week on drug sales. They said he had been shot twice in the back and Miss Fordyce had been shot in the head and back.

Police said the two apparently had been dead since last Thursday.

Detectives said Smith had worked for Henry Jackson, who was shot to death April 14. Near the body, they said, a newspaper article was found quoting police as predicting a violent battle for Jackson's narcotics kingdom.

Ohio Perspective

Common Cause flexes muscles

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Avery Friedman, coordinator of Common Cause's campaign disclosure project, turned up a curious phenomenon after reviewing the results of Ohio's recent Democratic and Republican primary elections.

Friedman said Democrats who voluntarily disclosed their campaign contributions and expenses won their party's support, while Republicans who complied lost.

The 27-year-old Cleveland lawyer said his group had asked all statewide candidates to file two reports listing all contributions and expenses over $25 before the primary. They also have asked the candidates to file comprehensive reports by June 21.

The purpose is to let Ohio voters know how politicians raise and spend their money to get elected.

Most political observers credited the outcome to party endorsements or personal popularity rather than Common Cause.

Friedman said, "Common Cause didn't make the difference, but it was a factor."

He pointed to the Democratic races for governor and lieutenant governor. "Gov. John J. Gilligan said 'yes' to our voluntary campaign and won," he said. "His opponent, James D. Nolan, said 'no' and lost."

But the telling election was the nine-way race for lieutenant governor. "Here you got a guy like Richard Celeste, who was the strongest supporter of Common Cause, and he beat Anthony Calabrese, who rejected our program," he said.

Friedman said, "I would attribute that to the fact that Celeste represents the honest, open candidate, and I think he represents the future."

State Sen. Tony Hall of Dayton, who won the Democratic party nod for secretary of state, was "extremely conscientious and energetic," Friedman said. "His reports were comprehensive."

But Friedman said, "There was something very significant about the Republican primary."

State Rep. Charles E. Fry of Springfield "ran as Mr. Clean, but didn't impress the stalwarts of the party," he said. "They backed former Gov. James A. Rhodes, who refused to participate in our project."

Rhodes won the party's nomination for governor by a 2-1 margin over Fry.

Friedman said the same thing happened in the GOP race for attorney general.

"They voted for Franklin County Prosecutor George Smith, who refused," Friedman said. "State Sen. Stanley Aronoff of Cincinnati complied and ran third."

Friedman said, "I think the attorney general's race reflected the mentality of Republicans who have not been sensitized by Watergate."

"Maybe the Republicans tolerated non-disclosure in the primary," he said. "But I don't think the vast majority of Democrats are going to tolerate non-disclosure in the November general election."

"The candidates have been picking up on this, and I think there will be even more pointed pressure on those candidates who don't disclose. It doesn't represent partisan politics, but honesty in government."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Youthful 'games' can lead to pregnancy

DEAR ABBY: I nearly weep every time I read a letter from a pregnant teen-ager pleading for help. So few people know that the sex act need not be completed in order to impregnate a female.

I was a medic in the service. When I got married, my ward doctor loaned me a medical book that he'd used in counseling young people. From that book I learned that when a man starts to get excited, a few drops of neutralizing fluid is released to neutralize any uric acid in the male urinary canal. It is nature's way of clearing a safe path for the delicate sperm cells to pass through at termination of the sex act.

Lab tests have shown that occasionally a few sperm cells are present in this fluid. It occurs most frequently in teenagers, since this is when the male is at the peak of his fertility.

Abby, please tell young people, if they plan to go beyond kissing and holding hands, they should take all the necessary precautions a couple would take in preventing pregnancy. "Fooling around a little" can be just as dangerous as "going all the way."

I am a father and grandfather who is concerned about our youth, so if this information can help someone, you may have my permission to change it anyway you like so as not to offend anyone.

UNCLE STANLEY

DEAR UNCLE: I'll not change a word. I've written to thousands of frightened teen-agers personally advising them of this fact. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to publicize this valuable, but little known information more broadly. Of course the ideal means of preventing pregnancy is abstinence, but realistic people know that the flesh is weak. I am not advocating "fooling around" but the punishment involved far outweighs the "crime."

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the expression "to gyp" someone having come from the word gypsy. My personal pet peeve is the phrase "he Jewed me down." And in this day of auctions, thrift shops, flea mzkts, etc., it is distressingly frequent.

My technique is to ask the Jew-er downer to teach me his bargaining technique because I'd like to know how to "gentle" somebody down. All but the most thick-headed clods seem to get the message.

Let's hear it for good old Christian charity!

NANCY SENTER, L.A., CAL.

DEAR ABBY: Is it proper for a gentleman to smoke a pipe in the presence of a lady without first asking if she minds?

CURIOUS
DEAR CURIOUS: It is not proper for a gentleman to smoke ANYTHING in the presence of a lady without asking if anyone minds. And the same goes for a lady.

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Lowell Thomas, who joined the fourth estate as a newspaper boy in the rowdy Colorado mining town of Cripple Creek, now is in his 70th year in the news business, by his estimate.

Although the 82-year-old CBS newscaster hasn't regularly worked on a newspaper since the early 1900s — with the Chicago Journal while in law school — he still considers himself a newspaperman.

"That's the way I started," said Thomas, who still does a Monday-through-Friday news show for CBS Radio. When Sept. 29 rolls around, he'll have logged his 44th year on the network.

Oddly enough, the veteran globe-trotter, author, chronicler of World Wars One and Two and friend of some of the most famous names in modern history, isn't the gabby sort of man-about-town.

Asked about an old friend, the late Gen. Henry "Hap" Arnold, head of the Army Air Forces in World War II, he recalls him thus: "Knew him a long time. We used to fly together when he was a young lieutenant.

"Crashed together once out near Coffeyville, Kansas. Pieces just started flying off the plane. Nobody was hurt, though."

Thomas isn't the kind of veteran journalist, either, who is known for strong public opinions, particularly those involving political jousts.

For example: The Teapot Dome scandal had Congress and the White House in an uproar in 1924. So how'd the mood of the country and its newspapers then compare with the uproar now over the White House tapes and the impeachment inquiry by the House Judiciary Committee?

"That's pretty hard to compare because it's so far in the past that it's difficult to remember," he replied. "Very difficult."

Thomas, who lives on a 500-acre farm in Pawling, N.Y., 60 miles from Manhattan, was asked how he got into broadcasting. He said it was indirectly due to his celebrated travels with British Col. T. E. Lawrence — "Lawrence of Arabia" — during World War One.

He'd written a best-selling book about the man and was on a world tour, retelling the story, when he finally got fed up with speaking engagements and settled down to write other books.

But a man from the new Columbia Broadcasting Co. called and talked him into auditioning as a replacement for the company's newscaster, war correspondent Floyd Gibbons.

He was met by the company's owner, William S. Paley, now CBS board chairman, and led to a microphone in a studio here. Three musicians, whom broadcasters then always kept on just-in-case duty, also were there.

"Mr. Paley said, 'If you don't mind, we'd like to have you talk for about 15 minutes,'" Thomas recalled. "I said, 'What about?' And he said, 'It doesn't make any difference. Talk about anything.'"

He decided to hold forth on matters in Burma and India, among other places. Before starting, he said, he told the musicians: "'I wonder if you'd play some soft music.' I suggested some Oriental thing . . ."

The rest is broadcasting history.

Man draws fines in disorderly conduct incident

A Washington C.H. man appeared in Municipal Court Monday and pleaded guilty to charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Judge Reed M. Winegardner fined Carl M. Snell, 31, of 406 E. Temple St., $50 for disorderly conduct and fined him $100 and sentenced him to 30 days in jail for resisting arrest. The jail term and $50 of the latter fine were suspended.

Snell had been arrested by city police when neighbors complained that he was drinking beer and yelling from his porch shortly before 4 a.m. After police asked him to be quiet and go into the house, the defendant began shouting obscenities and struggling with the officers as they attempted to arrest him, the report said.

Upon arriving at the police station, Snell again became violent and chemical mace was used to subdue him.

Money Does Matter . . .

HOW TO SAVE MONEY WITHOUT A SAVINGS ACCOUNT . . .

It's a good idea to have one — a savings account — but you do not need one in order to save money (and we're not thinking about the money-in-a-shoe alternative).

Here are some tips on what to do, and NOT to do, when involved in financial matters:

DO NOT leave a Bank Teller's station in a hurry, whether inside or outside the facility. Before leaving carefully count your change and put all valuables away. You're a good prospect for a thief if you try to put things in order while you are on the run.

DO NOT leave packages unattended. While Bank officers and employees are trained to be alert, losses can occur.

DO treat all credit cards as if they are money. Lose one, or have it stolen, and you are liable for up to $50, if that card is used fraudulently. At once cancel any missing cards, have new ones issued. With a $50 liability risk on each card, you could be in for trouble.

A little thought, care, and common sense can save you a lot of hard-earned money.

Stitch and Chat Club holds meeting

The Stitch and Chat Club of Jeffersonville met for a carry-in luncheon in the Lions Club room.

Twelve members found their places at a table attractive with spring flower arrangements. Following the meal, Mrs. Joe Ferguson, president, conducted the meeting and welcomed all. She also thanked members for projects completed.

Mrs. Earl Swaney, secretary, read minutes of the previous meeting and Mrs. Ottis Thompson made the treasurer's report. She announced that trays for the sale have been received. Cards were signed for ill members and friends. Bud vases of carnations had been sent to three members who were recently hospitalized.

Mrs. George Reedy, Mrs. Jean Warner, Mrs. Virginia Coil and Mrs. Helen Chester were the hostesses.

Mrs. Kermit Knox will entertain the club in her home for the June 21 meeting. Mrs. Carl Stackhouse, Miss Elma Armstrong and Miss Helen Fults will be the assisting hostesses. A carry-in luncheon will be featured at 12 noon.

Hairdresser says curls will have fashion

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It is very "tart-y" to wear heavy eye makeup with the new soft hairdos and clothes, hairdresser Maurice Tidy, 32, advises his youthful clients who want to identify "with the new ladylike look." The popular hairdresser, who began his career at 14 in London, is called upon to advise his clientele on all aspects of grooming. And he readily does so.

If a girl is going to be sensuous, she should be sensuous — she may want to find release but she need not lose perspective in reverting to the '30s look."

"The most sensuous parts of a woman's face are her eyes and lips," he says. Eyes should be soft and lips pale.

It is the younger girls — 18 to 30 — who are involved in fashion experimentation, "sort of like children with their mother's makeup," he has observed.

"They have enjoyed wearing jeans, their own art form, but now they find they also can wear clothes that reflect sensitivity without sacrificing the right to fight for their opinions."

All day in his Madison Avenue salon, staffed mostly with young Englishmen who like himself formerly worked in the United States and in England, Tidy listens. He listens to the girls who are deciding about new hair styles, trying out henna rinses and talking about their reformation. It is a simpatico atmosphere — the staff has experienced the same kind of growing pains.

"Now that these girls have decided they can go the other fashion way without sacrificing their freedom, they love it. I've never seen so many sit in front of a mirror and just stare as if they were seeing themselves for the first time. It is a very emotional period in their lives," Tidy insists.

"It is really a period of rejuvenation," he continued. "When I came to America the norm was to keep one haircut for 20 years or so. They were in a groove, but it is gradually changing. In England, Paris and Rome change comes faster. But the American girl is on to it all now."

A tall, earnest type, Tidy does not suggest that curly-haired girls straighten their hair and then have it curled for the new curly look as some hairdressers have advocated. In fact, he thinks straightening deprives them of their own natural thing — having curls gives them the fashion edge.

"Hair, curly or not, is not really going totally back to the '30s because there will not be one set look. It can be kept short toward the face and brushed away from the face to soften the cheekbones, but hair in back can be any length."

Credit alarm bells ringing more insistently

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest signal of a deterioration in the quality of credit comes from the New York Stock Exchange, where margin customers increased their debt to brokers by $40 million in April.

This figure in itself may have only minor significance to all but those involved, but when placed in context the point is quickly understood: It is the fourth straight monthly rise and it brings to at least $5.4 billion the amount of borrowed money supporting stock prices.

It is hardly safe to assume that the total amount of money owed on corporate shares isn't even higher, because margin customers sometimes borrow from other lenders too and are known even to mortgage their homes.

Margin in the stock market is like a down payment in the automobile or housing market. At the moment it takes 50 per cent down to become a margin customer of a broker, who lends the buyer the remaining funds.

However, as anyone knows who has ever played the stock market game, the price per share of a company can fall as well as rise, and the former has been the case for hundreds of stocks in the past few months.

The effective margin rate, therefore, often drops below 50 per cent.

In April, the exchange noted that "the quality of security credit deteriorated noticeably." Margin debt in accounts under 40 per cent equity rose to $1.98 billion. And the percentage of such accounts rose to 16 per cent from 12 per cent of all margined portfolios.

As the prices of many stocks continued to decline, the collateral left in margin accounts shrank, of course, by about $680 million, to a total of $13.2 billion.

The signal that flashes from such statistics is the likelihood of more margin calls, or demands by brokers for customers to put up more funds in order to maintain a certain level of equity.

If, for instance, a customer has $10,000 credit on $20,000 worth of stock, he has 50 per cent margin and 50 per cent equity. But if the market value shrinks to $15,000, he now has 67 per cent margin, 33 per cent equity.

In order to safeguard his loan, the broker sends off a telegram to his customer, notifying him that if he doesn't produce a certain additional amount of collateral by a certain date he will sell some of the securities.

This situation often provokes a crisis for the customer, who understandably doesn't wish to have his stock sold because the price is so low — he bought it with the opposite hope in mind — but who cannot afford to risk more cash.

In an untold number of cases, for example, the individual might have bought the stocks on margin simply because he didn't have the entire purchase price. If he didn't have it then, how will he get it now when he's poorer?

Nobody is ringing the alarm bells about the condition of stock market credit at the moment, but concern is rising, just as it is in other credit areas where deterioration is showing up. If the trend continues, the alarms will go off.

The delinquency ratio for all commercial bank installment loans rose to 2.69 per cent in the first two months of the year, the highest since the figures were first compiled about 30 years ago.

And some home mortgage lenders report that loan delinquencies are up. The Mortgage Bankers Association, for one, reported delinquencies rose to 4.7 per cent at the close of 1973, the highest since such records were begun.

Sowle resignation likely to stick

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio University President Claude R. Sowle agreed Monday to reconsider his resignation, but also told the board of trustees the chances he will change his mind are "very, very remote."

Because of the likelihood that the 46-year-old Sowle will stand firm in his decision to quit this summer, board Chairman William R. Morris announced he will appoint a presidential search committee "in a few days."

"In light of all factors concerned, I feel it necessary to consider all possible eventualities," Morris said.

Sowle cited insane conditions at the 12,000-student, state-supported school in announcing his resignation. He expressed dismay that "the dedicated selfless efforts of so many can be nullified by the senseless acts of so few."

The resignation came after nine days of student disturbances and demands from minority students and student labor groups.

It was learned Monday that Sowle had received a threat that he or members of his family would be kidnapped if he did not meet demands of dissident students.

However, school officials labeled the threat, received in a phone call to Sowle's office Friday, as "more of a nuisance than real."

Peg Black, school public relations officers, said "the dumbness of it irritated him (Sowle) more than anything else."

University security police refused to discuss the alleged threat.

Meanwhile, The Post, student newspaper at the school said the real roots of Sowle's frustration lay in OU's floundering enrollment and tight budget.

"It is as difficult for a university to deal with disagreeable actions by students as it is for students to stomach budget cuts in their academic areas," the newspaper said Monday in an editorial.

Worse, the paper said, "students complain now of things they lack, like black programs and a student workers union."

A school spokesman said recent events may have hastened Sowle's decision to resign, but the move had been in the making for a long time.

The longest measure of time is the kalpa in Hindu chronology. It is equivalent to 4,320 million years.

Wynn's homers break Reds' skein

Top pro players selected by New Orleans expansion

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The latest entry into the National Basketball Association walked away from the expansion draft with the best back court combination in the league, according to its owner.

Fred Rosenfeld, owner of the new New Orleans franchise is particularly jubilant when he refers to the man selected to team up with superstar Pete

Maravich in on the back line— Stu Lantz.

"Stu, along with Maravich, gives us arguably the best back court in achievement for us to claim this," he said.

Lantz, a six-year veteran from Detroit, averaged 8.9 points last season.

Rosenfeld also believes the team has

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim Wynn says, yes, by gosh, he can lead the National League in home runs.

"I'd sure like to anyway," he said Monday night after he'd blasted homer runs No. 13 and 14 to lead Los Angeles to a 5-3 victory over Cincinnati.

Los Angeles' 11th triumph in its last 13 starts halted Cincinnati's win streak at four and improved the Dodgers' lead to seven games over the second-place Reds in the National League West.

"I do know this, it's the best start I've ever had," Wynn said after his four runs batted in, giving him 41 for the season which tied him with Texas' Jeff Burroughs for the major league RBI lead. "I couldn't be happier about the way things are going."

Neither can the Dodgers. Wynn's three-run homer in the first provided a 3-0 lead against Cincinnati ace Jack Billingham and then his bases-empty homer in the fifth proved to be the decisive blow.

Joe Morgan slugged a two-run homer in the sixth that cut the Los Angeles lead to a 5-2 and Morgan singled home a third run in the fifth.

Later, Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson was fuming about the treatment received by his left fielder, Pete Rose, from the fans in the left field pavilion.

Rose was pelted with wads of paper, ice, rolls of toilet paper and said Anderson, "unbelievable vulgarity."

Anderson said he threatened to take his team off the field if it didn't stop and he conferred prior to the fifth inning with umpire Chris Pelekoudas.

"I'm unhappy about the ice and the vulgarity," Anderson said. "I can't see how they can allow people to sit out there and yell what they were yelling."

Rose said he doesn't mind a few boos. "But the vulgarity is something else. I can't imagine a guy sitting next to his wife and yelling that stuff. What kind of men are they? They're gutless."

Wynn, who has captured the fans in the center field seats, said, "I think the fans really like Pete. They're just excited about our ballclub, that's all."

"Pete is such a competitor. I guess a lot of it stems from the flare-up he had last season in the playoffs (against the Mets)."

Play was stopped several times while grounds keepers removed the toilet paper rolls. An announcement on the message board and over the public address system halted most of the throwing, but not the obscenities.

Tommy John, 6-1, earned the victory but required relief help from Mike Marshall, who appeared for the 25th time.

Marshall struck out Johnny Bench in the eighth, who represented the tying run at the time, and then got the Reds in order in the ninth. It marked his fifth successive appearance in which he hasn't allowed a run.

"It's getting together now," he said. "It's just a matter of getting regular work."

Cubs 2, Mets 1
Burt Hooton pitched a four-hitter and Billy Williams drove in both Chicago runs with a sixth-inning single to lead the Cubs past the Mets.

Expos 4, Pirates 2
Bob Bailey scored two runs and drove in another to pace the Montreal triumph over Pittsburgh.

Starter Mike Torrez got relief help from Chuck Taylor, but picked up his first victory over the Pirates since Sept. 10, 1972.

Willie Stargell singled in both of Pittsburgh's runs in the eighth inning. The other Montreal run scored on a wild pitch by Jim Rooker.

Padres 8, Astros 6
Willie McCovey drove in four runs with three hits, helping San Diego hand Houston its 10th consecutive loss.

Houston sped to a 4-0 lead in the second inning, but the Padres came back and pulled ahead 6-4 on McCovey's three-run double in the fourth. The Astros tied it on Cliff Johnson's two-run homer, but Fred Kendall broke the deadlock with a seventh-inning double and added insurance in the eighth.

Phils 2, Cards 1
Left-hander Steve Carlton pitched an eight-hitter and singled in one of Philadelphia's runs to carry the Phillies past St. Louis for his fourth straight victory.

I HOPE HE'S GONE WHEN I OPEN MY EYES — Unfortunately for Jets' catcher Ken Dean, not only did he miss seeing the play; but he also did not have the ball, as Keith Eckles slides safely into home. (Larry Watts Photo)

Four games open Little League slate

Opening night of the Washington Little League offered everyone two entirely different types of games to watch. In the opener of the Major Leagues at Wilson Field, Downtown Drug nipped the Mustangs 3-2 in a pitchers' duel; while in the nightcap, the Jets out-slugged Charge-A-Check 9-5 in a come-from-behind victory.

Mustangs took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first frame. However, Downtown Drug came up with a run in the final three stanzas to provide the difference.

Downtown Drug's Murphy hurled a three-hitter, as he struck out 13 batters and yielded only one walk. His counterpart, Melvin, gave up four hits, as he struck out 10 and walked three.

Clark Lee homered twice and cracked a double to lead the Jets to a 9-5 win. Lee, who was also the Jets' pitcher, picked up the mound decision with a five-hitter, as he yielded 10 walks and 10 strikeouts.

Bush collected two doubles for the losers. Sheppard homered and Dean doubled for the Jets.

In the Minor League games at Armbrust Field, 1st Federal stopped County Bank 14-12 and Sagars registered a 14-11 win over Agrico.

Marti swung the big bat for 1st Federal, as he knocked out a pair of doubles and a home run. Valentine added another home run to 1st Federal's tally and Vermillion had a pair of doubles for County Bank.

Ken Eddleman struck out 10 batters in Sagars' victory. Three of the five hits he gave up were a double and triple by Jerry Guilt and a homer to Steven Jones.

Sagars had four extra base hits in the contest. Tracy Noel and Chip Wilt doubled, while Mike Johnson and Johnny Enochs had triples.

Dick Butkus may retire

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Butkus, the premier middle linebacker of the Chicago Bears who has been plagued by an arthritic knee, hinted Monday night that he would retire from pro football after nine seasons in the National Football League.

After receiving the Most Courageous Player Award at the New York Pro Football Writers dinner, the burly Butkus said, "I am sorry it has to end this way," but he did not say specifically that he was retiring.

He said that some players have the opportunity to retire voluntarily, but others are forced to retire when they no longer can contribute.

Meanwhile, in Chicago, Bears' officials, including George Halas, longtime owner of the club and now board chairman, said they had no indication of Butkus' retirement plans.

"I haven't talked with him in a while," said the venerable Halas, "and I don't know anything about him retiring. If he has done it, he has done it without informing us."

Dan Desmond, the club's director for press, radio and television news, said he was unaware of Butkus' future plans.

The powerful 6-foot-3, 245-pound Butkus, the Bears' No. 1 draft choice in 1965 after an outstanding collegiate career at the University of Illinois, was a member of the Associated Press' All-NFL team six times, including five straight seasons from 1968-1972.

He played in eight consecutive Pro Bowl games.

Last season he saw limited action because of his ailing knee.

City schools eye summer maintenance projects

Members of the Washington C.H. Board of Education Monday night reviewed a partial list of 12 summer maintenance projects and accepted bids for painting at two schools.

The board also dealt with a number of miscellaneous matters during the meeting, including approving a list of graduation candidates and the adoption of three new policies.

(See separate stories on board's decision to appeal case to Ohio Supreme Court and tennis court renovation proposal).

SUMMER maintenance projects reviewed by board members were:

Repair of middle school sidewalks; repainting of outside trim and upstairs auditorium lobby at middle school building; painting of fire escape and setting of playground equipment at Cherry Hill; constructing a catch basin and resurfacing front parking area at WSHS; sealing blacktop at Belle Aire and Eastside; installation of a folding partition of WSHS and equipping ninth grade science room; sealing roof, repair of spouting and painting of outside trim at Rose Avenue; rebuilding tennis court enclosure at Gardner Park; repairing stadium restrooms; roofing stadium press box and miscellaneous repairs at middle school.

The board accepted a bid for repainting of the outside trim at the middle school building. The contract was awarded to Anderson Decorating Service, 207 W. East St., which submitted a bid of $3,160. The same firm also was awarded a contract for repainting of trim at Rose Avenue Elementary School with a bid of $1,240. Both jobs must be completed by Aug. 15. Only one other bid was submitted for the middle school project. The bid, totaling $8,600, was submitted by Virgil Morgan, 1006 S. Fayette St.

Two other bids were received by the board for the Rose Avenue painting project. They were Calvin Williamson Decorating Service, U.S. 62-S, $1,425, and Morgan, $1,400.

PERSONNEL employed by board members to assist with the summer maintenance program were Richard Roth, Dean Perrill, Charles Stemple, Richard Boggs and John Anders. The extended employment of Mrs. Ethel Stewart through June 18 as an assistant custodian at Eastside Elementary School was approved.

A new policy pertaining to the payment for mileage on personal vehicles was approved. The district's present rate paid on approved travel is 8 cents per mile except for vocational teachers who received 9 cents per mile. In view of the increased fuel costs, the board hiked the payment to 10 cents per mile effective Sept. 1, 1974.

A written policy to govern the selection of materials in the district's libraries was approved. Basically, the librarian will be responsible for selection, but questioned materials will be withdrawn from circulation until discussed by a library committee.

Recommendations to govern the implementation of a severance pay policy, originally adopted by the board last Jan. 21 were approved. The board approved the policy recommendations subject to possible amendments regarding repeat or duplicate severance pay.

A LIST OF 157 graduation candidates was approved for commencement ceremonies at WSHS, subject to completion of all graduation requirements. Combined commencement and baccalaureate rites will be held Sunday, June 2.

In other matters: Resignations were accepted from Miss Shirley Carmichael, elementary art teacher; Mrs. Edith Parsley, Title I teacher; Austin Crusie, high school English teacher, Mrs. Donna Kelley, elementary teacher, and Mrs. Heribina Terhune, elementary music instructor; Renewed an insurance contract with the Old Security Life Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., for school accident and athletic insurance coverage next school year. Rates will remain the same;

Accepted a bid submitted by the Goodyear store for about 15 school bus tires and tubes at a cost of $65.25 each. The only other bid submitted was from Barnhart's Firestone at $75.20;

Approved a request submitted by Mrs. Marlene Kiracofe to use Cherry Hill Elementary School for a family reunion on Aug. 11;

Authorized a request for monetary assistance by Mrs. Barbara Vance, junior high home economics teacher, to attend an annual conference in Los Angeles, Calif., June 23-28. The board will pay one-third of the $442 total cost;

Paid expenses of $14.08 for Ben Roby for a March 27 professional meeting he attended in Columbus;

AGREED to provide 22 teachers who are positive tuberculosis reactors the option of having the Fayette County Health Department furnish a drug which would eliminate the necessity for future x-rays. The teachers would be required to take three pills daily for one year. The drug is used in the treatment of active tuberculosis cases. The option has been provided since the mobile x-ray unit has been discontinued. The plan would be of no cost to the school district;

Approved a personal leave request submitted by Mrs. Lee Mossbarger, an Eastside teacher, for June 3-4. Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor said that June 3 is a teacher work day and that students pick up their grade cards on the following day; and Authorized the employment of Jeff Blake and Cindy Thompson, both vacationing college students, to assist with the summer recreation program at Eyman Park starting June 17.

Dismissed teacher suit to be appealed by board

The Washington C.H. Board of Education Monday night unanimously agreed to appeal a decision favoring a dismissed Washington Senior High School teacher to the Ohio Supreme Court.

East Liverpool water pinch still unabated

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—Emergency water-saving measures continued in effect in East Liverpool today as divers were called in to try to clear a jammed intake pipe to the water plant.

Public and parochial schools which were closed Monday remained shut today. Mayor Norman Bucher also asked industries and businesses which use water heavily to close down.

The Hall China Co. and the Louthan plant of Ferro Corp. shut down. The two plants employ a total of about 800 persons.

Officials in this city of 20,000 said the problems which developed over the weekend had cut the water intake to about half of normal.

Normally, the city draws three to four million gallons of water a day from the river.

Despite water-saving measures and use of two fire trucks to provide emergency pumping facilities, Water Superintendent Rodney Stull said the intake was barely keeping up with usage.

Fire Chief Alfred Van Dyne said the city would be "in trouble" if there was a major fire. He charged that the shortage would not have occurred if the water department had made repairs promptly on an intake which was damaged early last year by a barge.

Stull said a dispute over insurance coverage, plus a supply shortage and construction problems had delayed construction.

NCR must pay taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Overturning an Ohio Supreme Court decision the U.S. Supreme Court ruled Monday the National Cash Register Co. must pay state property taxes on goods stored for out-of-state shipment.

The U.S. court said the Dayton-based firm's mere storage of the merchandise did not qualify it for an exemption from the state tax.

"Our prior cases have determined that the protections of the export-import clause of the Constitution are not available until the article at issue begins its physical entry into the stream of exportation," wrote the court. "We find no reason to depart from that settled doctrine."

The case dates back to 1967 when Ohio attempted to collect more than $50,000 in personal property taxes on $1 million worth of National Cash Register machines produced in Ohio for shipment abroad.

Board members agreed to appeal the case involving Mrs. Jean Fannin, Rt. 6, Washington C.H., to the state's highest court after they learned that the Second District Court of Appeals had ruled in favor of the dismissed teacher and said that she was entitled to $437 in back salary payments and $100 court costs.

Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor said it will cost the board approximately $585 to appeal the decision in the Ohio Supreme Court. James A. Kiger, now Fayette County prosecuting attorney, has been representing the school board in the court battle since he was serving as city solicitor when the suit was filed four years ago.

Mrs. Fannin, a former business education teacher at Washington Senior High School, was not re-employed by the board in 1970 for alleged misuse of sick leave.

The Ohio Education Association filed two subsequent suits against the board of education on behalf of Mrs. Fannin following the board decision. One dealt with back salary and the second with her allegation of improper dismissal and denial of due process of law.

Mrs. Fannin said she was absent from her high school teaching position due to the severe illness of her mother.

During an oral argument, the Court of Appeals rendered a decision overturning a trial court's decision which held that Mrs. Fannin was not entitled to back salary payments from the board of education.

Demo candidates given briefing on campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—A "nuts and bolts" briefing on campaign techniques will be held here Wednesday for Ohio Democrats who are challenging incumbent Republican congressmen.

The Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, of which Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, is chairman, will conduct the one-day political workshop.

The Democratic candidates will meet in the morning and afternoon with speakers from the Hays committee and the Democratic National Committee. The luncheon address will be given by Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss.

The Committee on Political Education (COPE) of the AFL-CIO will hold a reception for the candidates in the evening.

Improved tennis facilities proposed at Gardner Park

A proposal regarding the repair and improvement of tennis courts at Gardner Park and public use of the stadium's fieldhouse was presented to members of the Washington C.H. Board of Education Monday night.

James Ward, 549 Damon Dr., and Rick Stinson, 154 Carolyn Rd., presented the proposal which requested the board to consider the possibility of resurfacing two idle tennis courts at Gardner Park and opening the fieldhouse for showering and locker facilities for those using the tennis courts. City Manager Dan Wolford supported Ward and Stinson in the presentation of the proposal.

Ward said estimated cost of resurfacing the two damaged courts would be approximately $2,600. The courts would be resurfaced with a green vinyl-type coating which would reflect light and provide better drainage. The coating is specially designed for tennis play. Cost of asphalt resurfacing would be about $2,000.

A STUDY has been conducted by Stinson regarding lighting for the tennis courts. He said eight lights (four poles with two lights each) would be required to light the two courts. Stinson estimated the poles would cost between $20 and $70 each and it was suggested that lights owned by the board which were recently removed from Gardner Park Stadium be used for the tennis courts.

Stinson said estimated cost for wiring and poles would be about $200 and labor for installation would be the only other expense experienced by the board since the lights owned by the school would be adequate. The city has 15 lights which could be made available also, according to Wolford.

It was pointed out that the cost of the project could be shared by the tennis participants by installing a coin-operated timer on the light poles, similar to ones in surrounding cities.

Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor pointed out that while the two back tennis courts are useless, a renovation project is presently under way.

A Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce study on recreational aspects here recently disclosed that the city has enough facilities, but they are not being utilized properly.

WARD INQUIRED about the board's feelings toward leasing the courts to a private concern which would finance the project, but board members said it would be interested in exploring the feasibility of the proposal.

Fred Domenico said the board is primarily concerned with the proper use of the facilities and he hopes that the Community Education program could absorb supervision of the fieldhouse, if opened for shower and locker facilities for those tennis players and others who could exercise on the stadium track.

Board President James Wilson said the board would need an exact cost figure to completely study the possibility of the proposal.

A six-member committee of Hank Shaffer, community education program director, Domenico, Wilson, Wolford, Ward and Stinson, was formed to explore the proposal more deeply. The committee scheduled a meeting for 7:30 a.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

Tennis has gained tremendous popularity here in the last two years. This year over 100 persons registered for beginning tennis lessons being offered through the Community Education program at Eyman Park.

Mid-U.S. gets wet

By The Associated Press

Thundershowers mingled with warm, sticky air over the nation's midsection today, while clear skies and cool temperatures crisped the Northwest, Southwest and Northeast.

Several tornadoes were sighted in the Plains, from Childress, Tex., to Broken Bow, Neb. At Maddock, N.D., a twister destroyed a grain bin and aircraft hanger, while another set down at Poplar Bluff, Mo., uprooting trees and damaging property.

No injuries were reported. Showers sprinkled the region from North Dakota to Oklahoma and Illinois, and a flashflood watch continued through the night in eastern South Dakota.

Scattered rain mixed with snow at higher elevations fell in the northern Rockies, and a travel advisory was in effect in parts of Montana. Lewistown, Mont., was hit with 4 inches of snow during the night.

Freeze warnings were issued for high spots in the Northwest and New Mexico, and temperatures dropped into the 40s and upper 30s in the Northeast.

Readings before dawn ranged from 28 at Houlton, Maine to 80 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Little girl killed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Kathy Killings, 9, of Cincinnati was killed Monday when she ran into the path of a car while playing, police said. She became the city's 22nd traffic fatality.

It was the nickels and dimes of children that paid for the 89-foot-high pedestal for the Statue of Liberty in 1886.

Opening lead — ten of hearts.

When a contract depends solely on the favorable distribution of a suit or the success of a finesse, all you can do is hope that the Fates will be kind to you.

However, some hands that seem to depend on luck can be salvaged by good play. The luck element can be reduced at the same time as the chance of success is increased.

Look at this hand where South is in five diamonds and West leads a heart. East wins and plays another heart, which South ruffs.

There's no denying that South now has an excellent shot at the contract. He can draw trumps, play the K-x of clubs and finesse the jack. If the jack wins, he is home. Even if it loses, he may find the clubs divided 3-3 and, failing that, he may find that the spade finesse will work.

All these possibilities added together make South a huge favorite for the contract. Yet, as the cards lie, he would go down by pursuing this course of play. He would lose both finesses and suffer a one-trick defeat.

However, South has a better chance to get home by varying his play slightly. After drawing trumps he should cash the A-K of clubs, deliberately spurning the finesse. In the actual case this safety play succeeds, since East has the doubleton queen.

Note that rejecting the finesse does not hurt South's chances one bit. Thus, had East held x-x of clubs instead of Q-x, declarer would still make the hand by later playing towards the J-x in dummy and so establishing the game-going trick.

The point is that a club finesse is unnecessary if West has the queen and hence should not be attempted. The maximum chance is attained by refusing the finesse.

What's wrong with reruns? From the way Howard Miller's rerun of his hour-long Hawaiian show was received at CKFN the other night there seems to be nothing wrong. If you haven't seen this one try to get it booked in for your next meeting. He has two Island shows, one runs about 25 minutes, the other runs close to one hour. His slides are in Carousel slide trays and the Carousel slide projector is connected to a recorder which is designed to present the commentary with musical background and also change the slide at the designated time.

After the showing Howard answered many questions on the photographic techniques he used to capture the beauty of the islands. What film? For general shooting, Howard stated, Agfachrome was his choice. However he used High Speed Ektachrome for shooting with poor light and he indicated that in every case he used Kodak processing with ESP. Kodachrome X was used when shooting from the air to beef up the contrast. What camera? Honeywell Pentax Spotmatic II. Lens? Most of his shots, he said, were made with the SMC Takumar 135 mm, f - 2.5. Howard works well with the 135 millimeter lens. Let's face it: Howard gets great pix because he takes pains to make each exposure say what he wants it to say. Howard is one of those people who strives for perfection. And this boy gets more fun out of the photographic hobby than anyone I know.

While on the topic of photo fun, I've been having a ball shooting up film with my new Honeywell Pentax ES. You feel like you're cheating not having to set the exposure; the camera looks over the scene, figures the exposure, and then tells you what you shot it at as it makes a perfect exposure. That IS almost cheating. If you've been thinking of doing some cheating come in and look over the Pentax ES.

Salt-Free Diets Can Taste Good

What foods must be avoided in a salt-free diet?

Mrs. L.S. Fla.

Dear Mrs. S.:

Salt is chemically known as sodium chloride. It is the sodium that is the important factor that must be eliminated in a salt-free diet.

Bacon, brains, kidneys, sausages, smoked meats, smoked fish, shellfish and seasoned sauces are among the obvious foods to avoid. Vegetables canned with preservatives, catsup, horseradish and sauerkraut are usually banned in a salt-free diet.

Foods and drinks preserved with sodium benzoate are less obvious, but should be avoided, too.

Carbonated drinks contain far more sodium than is normally recognized. Pretzels, cereals, breads and cakes made with baking soda are hidden sources of sodium.

At first, a salt-free diet seems to be a punishment with too many limitations. There are many excellent salt substitutes available which give flavor to the food.

My wife says she hears voices that keep giving her instructions. We had some trouble in the family. I thought her problem was due to that, but it seems to be getting worse.

Does such a condition ever burn itself out?

Mr. T.M. Wash.

Dear Mr. M.: Hearing voices may be one of the symptoms of deeply rooted psychological disturbance.

The activation of these symptoms by family trouble may be simply coincidence.

You cannot base the future happiness and health of your wife on speculation that this condition will disappear. Even if it does, the likelihood is great that other evidences of psychological disturbances will present themselves.

You must not permit a great deal of time to go by without seeking help from your physician and a psychiatrist or psychologist he will recommend.

Mature adults do not feel that the need for psychological support is any different from the help they need for a physical disorder.

Commission OKs amendments to subdivision regulations

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners adopted proposed amendments to Fayette County's subdivision regulations during an empty public hearing Monday afternoon.

The proposed subdivision regulations, which have been the target of almost endless criticism by developers and builders, were formally adopted in an unusual situation in which not a single spectator attended to voice objection.

The vacant spectator section of the commissioners' office seemed to surprise members of the board, although they quickly pointed out that the public hearing had been advertised on April 18 and May 16.

Commissioner Ray D. Warner moved to adopt the proposed changes, and the motion was seconded by Robert J.

Mace. The motion carried by a unanimous vote.

Since no objections were voiced, commissioners waived the reading of the proposed changes.

CHAIRMAN J. Herbert Perrill said the proposed amendments will become effective immediately upon adoption by the members of the Fayette County Planning Commission.

Through a misunderstanding, the Fayette County Planning Commission has never adopted the present subdivision regulations which govern Fayette County.

The present standards, originally established Oct. 11, 1972, along with the amendments to the regulations will be submitted for consideration of the Fayette County Planning Commission at a public hearing which has been scheduled for 8 p.m. June 18 in the commissioners' office.

The question of the Fayette County Planning Commission's failure to formally adopt the present subdivision regulations surfaced during a court contest last year between developer Jess Gilmore and the Fayette County Board of Commissioners.

It was ruled during the court case that commissioners are not the sole authority for approval of subdivision regulations, that they also must be adopted by the planning commission.

THE COURT ISSUED followed action by the commissioners attempting to prevent Gilmore from proceeding with the development of a subdivision on Inskeep Road, just off Ohio 41-N. Commissioners had disapproved the development because of inadequate drainage, but following the court contest, Gilmore was permitted to complete the housing development.

Commissioners said that if changes should result from the June 18 public hearing on the subdivision regulation changes, the resolution formally adopted Monday afternoon can be rescinded.

In other matters Monday afternoon, the board authorized two persons to attend professional meetings.

Sheriff Donald L. Thompson was authorized to attend the National Sheriff's Convention June 15-20 in Las Vegas, Nev., and O.M. Riegel, county welfare director, was authorized to attend the Central Ohio Welfare Director's Association meeting Thursday in Columbus.

Jeff Boy Scouts award winners

JEFFERSONVILLE — Boy Scout Troop No. 67, of Jeffersonville, was awarded a first place ribbon for its camping exhibit during the annual Scout-o-rama held in Columbus over the weekend.

Two judging periods were held during the event, one on Saturday and another on Sunday, and the Jeffersonville Scouts received a 100 per cent rating both times, according to Scoutmaster Fred Doyle.

Gayland Robinette, junior assistant scoutmaster, and John Milstead, a member of the leadership corps, were primarily responsible for the troop's success.

Doyle said that 20 Scouts from the Jeffersonville troop and some members of the Cub Scout pack attended the two-day event which attracted a total of 200 troops.

A Boy Scout troop from Hillsboro was the only other representative from the Paint Creek Valley District.

Recreation board gets Christman Park section

The Christman Memorial Park Committee agreed Monday to release the completed portion of the park to the City Recreation Board for scheduling of summer recreational activities.

The decision to release the completed portion of the park was announced during a progress report meeting of members of Christman Memorial Park Committee Monday afternoon in the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce office.

Actually, the park will be released to the City Recreation Board, but programs and scheduling of activities will be administered through the Community Education program which has entered into a contract with the city to operate the summer recreation program.

The park project on the south side of Paint Creek on S. Elm Street directly across from the city's sewage treatment plant has been completed with the construction of a regulation size Little League baseball diamond and parking lot.

Only minor refurbishing is needed before the south side of the park can be opened.

Committee members said the park would be restricted to baseball and softball activities.

Plans were also completed for furnishing a water fountain behind the dugouts at the baseball diamond. Pipeline for the water fountain would be stretched from the railroad tracks near St. Colman Cemetery.

The committee members also discussed the need for professional assistance in establishing a master plan for future development of the park. It was felt the master plan was necessary before a fund-raising program could be launched for the park named in memory of the late Clarence A. Christman Jr.

Council meets Wednesday

No legislation has been scheduled to be considered by members of the Washington C.H. City Council at the regular semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

Youth gains fond wish

THOMPSONVILLE, Ill. (AP) — "I didn't realize there were so many kind and helpful people in the United States," Angus Gaither, 18, says.

Valedictorian of the class of 1974 in this rural southern Illinois town, Gaither managed to study and tend the family's 400-acre farm. He's the sole support of his widowed, invalid mother and his partially paralyzed brother.

But he wanted to attend Harvard University without neglecting his family, and he had until Monday to tell Harvard officials whether he'd accept a $5,250-a-year scholarship or remain at home.

His quandary became public through news accounts, and within 24 hours, he'd received about 35 phone calls. "Some are just wishing well, some are offering financial contributions," he said Monday.

The money will go into a trust fund to support his mother and brother and to hire a nurse or housekeeper while Angus is away at Harvard. He'll lease the farm to a neighbor.

Cycle mishap injures youth

A 15-year-old Fayette County boy was injured while riding a motorcycle, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported. City police are investigating a hit-skip accident which damaged a New Vienna woman's car.

Applying the front brakes on the motorcycle Randy Lee Everhart, 823 Millwood Ave., was driving on a gravel driveway, sent the bike out of control, sheriff's deputies reported.

The mishap occurred at 6:30 p.m. Monday and slightly damaged the bike. Everhart was unhurt.

A new car owned by Pamela Sue Penn, of New Vienna, was damaged while parked at the Sohio gas station, corner of Court and North streets, sometime between 9 p.m. and midnight, city police reported.

Police suspect a hit-skip driver caused the damage.

Trash fire doused

A report of a trash fire sent Washington C.H. firemen to 604 Eastern Ave. at 9:44 p.m. Monday.

No one was home at the residence and since the fire was in conflict with the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency's burning regulations, it was extinguished with water. There was no loss.

Colorado man faces charge of drug possession

A 30-year-old Denver, Colo., man has been charged by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department with possession of marijuana.

Sheriff Donald L. Thompson explained that Sgt. William R. Crooks stopped Phillip M. Stapleton at 5:20 p.m. Monday on U.S. 35, near the Creamer Road intersection, because of a traffic violation.

Sgt. Crooks found what turned out to be marijuana lying in plain sight within the car, along with marijuana smoking instruments.

After Stapleton's arrest, he was incarcerated in county jail under $1,000 bond. A hearing will take place today in Washington C.H. Municipal Court on the charge.

Wittenberg chief quits

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — D. G. Kenneth Andeen, president of Wittenberg University since 1969, has resigned.

Andeen submitted his resignation at the university's semiannual board meeting Monday night. He gave no reason for the resignation, which takes effect June 30.

Earl F. Morris, board chairman, said last month, however, that Andeen told him he wanted to return to teaching or church work. Andeen was formerly a minister.

Morris said a committee would be appointed to select a new president.

Jaworski lashes Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski says President Nixon is trying to "make a farce" of the charter guaranteeing the prosecutor's independence and his right to subpoena Watergate evidence from White House files.

Jaworski's challenge to the President's willingness to accept the prosecutor's independence was disclosed Monday shortly after U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered Nixon to obey a subpoena from the special prosecutor's office demanding tapes of 64 conversations sought as evidence in the Watergate cover-up trial.

After the order, Vice President

Gerald R. Ford said the White House should turn over any tapes "relevant to a criminal proceeding," but Nixon counsel James D. St. Clair said the White House would appeal Sirica's decision.

Meanwhile, U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell began hearing requests from defendants in the White House platters case for access to files that might support their contention they were working on a legitimate national security matter. J. Fred Buzhardt, White House counsel, was scheduled to appear before Gesell to testify whether material sought by the defendants exists.

On Capitol Hill, the House Judiciary

Committee scheduled another day of hearing evidence in closed session. Members were expected to listen to the tape of a March 13, 1973, presidential conversation with John W. Dean III and H. R. Haldeman.

Jaworski disclosed details of his latest clash with the White House in a strongly worded letter to Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

At the request of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a Judiciary Committee member, Eastland scheduled an executive session of the panel for 2:30 p.m. EDT today and asked St. Clair and Jaworski to stand by if called to testify.

Jaworski told Eastland that in opposing the cover-up trial subpoena, St. Clair had said "it is the President's contention that he has ultimate authority to determine when to prosecute, whom to prosecute, and with what evidence to prosecute."

"The crucial point is that the President, through his counsel, is challenging my right to bring an action against him to obtain evidence, or differently stated, he contends that I cannot take the President to court," the prosecutor said.

That position, said Jaworski, would make "a farce" of his charter and would render its guarantee of the right to take the President to court "an idle and empty one."

In his order directing the President to give him the subpoenaed material to determine whether it is relevant to the cover-up trial, Sirica specifically rejected what he called the President's "attempt to abridge the special prosecutor's independence."

Sirica said the need for evidence for the trial was "if anything, more compelling ... since the matter has developed into a criminal trial" than in the case last Aug. 29, when he ordered Nixon to turn over tapes for evidence for the Watergate grand jury.

In the earlier case, the U.S. Court of Appeals upheld Sirica's order and (Please turn to page 3)

Nixon facing another House panel subpoena

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is facing a new subpoena threat from the House Judiciary Committee unless he agrees to turn over tapes and other material relating to the dairy fund and ITT matters.

The White House promised to reply Monday to the committee's April 19 request for the material, but sent word last night it would respond today. Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., has said he will seek a subpoena if the evidence is not forthcoming.

Nixon also must reply Wednesday to an earlier committee subpoena for 11 Watergate tapes.

Nixon's deepening tape troubles overshadowed today's resumption of the Judiciary Committee's impeachment hearings, now zeroing in on the crucial March 1973 stage of the Watergate cover-up.

The committee, continuing in closed session despite White House demands that hearings be opened, is expected to hear today a tape of a March 13, 1973, presidential conversation with John W. Dean III and onetime White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman.

The panel will then hear — today if time permits or otherwise on Wednesday — a tape of Nixon's March 21, 1973, conversation with Dean, his former White House counsel.

The March 21 conversation, during which Nixon and Dean discussed the payment of money to convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt to keep him quiet, is regarded by some members as the key to whether Nixon will be linked to the cover-up.

Also important to Nixon's chances of avoiding impeachment, however, is his response to the committee's subpoena on Wednesday, and any new ones that may be issued.

"It is going to be difficult for anyone to vote to exonerate him if he doesn't produce what we think is necessary," Rep. Tom Railsback of Illinois, an influential GOP member, told newsmen. "I've been trying to get that message through."

Nixon notified the committee two weeks ago he would not give it any more Watergate material. The committee has requested 76 Watergate tapes and is expected to issue subpoenas for the others as the need arises during the presentation of evidence.

Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., who keeps close ties to the White House, said he thought Nixon again might offer the committee edited transcripts instead of tapes, a course he followed April 29 in response to a committee subpoena for 42 Watergate conversations.

Wiggins added, however, that he hoped Nixon also would supply tapes of key parts of any conversation to help the committee understand them. He said tapes the committee has heard of conversations covered in the White House transcripts benefit Nixon.

The expletives deleted are much milder than anyone imagined and the general tone conveys an impression of casual, off-hand conversation, not the seemingly intense ones indicated by the transcripts, he said.

Magruder sentenced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder, the No. 2 man in President Nixon's reelection campaign was sentenced today to serve 10 months in prison for helping plan the Watergate break-in, bugging and cover-up.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered that Magruder serve a 10-month to four-year term in a minimum security institution and gave him until June 4 to surrender himself.

Magruder was the first Nixon insider to publicly admit his own involvement in the Watergate case and the first to publicly accuse others in the cover-up.

"My ambition obscured my judgement," Magruder told Sirica in a brief statement. He said he still doesn't know he surrendered "my moral precepts."

"I know what I have done," he said. "I'm confident the country will survive Watergate and Jeb Magruder."

Magruder's lawyer James E. Sharp told the judge that Magruder has already been punished in the 13 months since he first told of his role in Watergate to federal prosecutors.

Magruder was the sixth former White House aide to be sentenced to prison. He pleaded guilty Aug. 16 to a single count of conspiracy to unlawfully intercept communications, to obstruct justice and to defraud the United States of America.

Education bill faces veto if Senate language stays in WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a $24 billion education bill, but it faces many problems in conference with the House and when it reaches President Nixon's desk.

The big issue in the conference will be how far Congress should go in trying to restrict busing for school desegregation purposes.

The House measure passed in March virtually would end such busing. The Senate bill passed 81 to 5 Monday contains the same limitations as the House version, but it adds language continuing the authority of federal courts to order busing if necessary to meet equal rights requirements of the Constitution.

President Nixon views the Senate antibusing provision as much too weak, deplores the failure to lump together most of the education aid money in a revenue-sharing package and assails as a "bureaucratic nightmare" provisions on how the money must be spent. He has said these objections would cause him to veto it.

The principal limitation on busing in both the House and Senate bills is a policy declaration that no child should be bused beyond the next closest school from his home. The added Senate language would permit the courts to disregard this limitation.

The House bill also contains a provision, deleted in the Senate, that would permit reopening of all previously decided busing cases and their redetermination in line with the new restrictions.

Nixon has endorsed the House busing provisions strongly.

The Senate bill would continue for four years the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Act, the biggest federal education program, and several other types of grants.

The impacted areas program of aid to districts crowded because of federal installations, such as military bases, would be continued but cut back in some respects. However, it would not be reduced nearly as much as Nixon recommended.

Also extended would be the program of aid for handicapped children, with sharply increased funds, and the adult education program.

Manhunt for SLA members widened

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As lawmen continued their search for Patricia Hearst and William and Emily Harris, the distraught parents of the suspected Symbionese Liberation Army members pleaded with their children to surrender rather than face possible violent death.

With the memory of last Friday's flaming deaths of six SLA members vivid in her mind, Mrs. Betty Bunnell, Harris' mother, said: "All of us just can't bear the thought of seeing anything on film like we saw this past weekend, and to think that it might happen to my son is almost unbearable and I do wish he would give himself up."

Mrs. Harris' father, Frederic Schwartz, flew to Los Angeles from Chicago Monday night to plead with his daughter to surrender to him. In a statement aimed at Emily, 27, Schwartz said, "You have only two choices open now: You may elect to die an equally horrible and totally useless death ... Your other choice is to come forth and live." He offered to meet her and take her to law officers.

And in Hillsborough, Calif., Catherine Hearst, mother of the 20-year-old coed whose kidnapping on Feb. 4 set off the series of events, said, "I hope she will give herself up and come home."

But there was no sign that Miss Hearst or the Harrises, a white couple, were about to give up voluntarily. And more than 100 local, state and federal law officers remained on fulltime duty in search of the three, who are described as "armed and extremely dangerous" and possibly the last remnants of the small band of terrorists.

Law officers said their search for Miss Hearst and the Harrises was still centered in Southern California, although Los Angeles Police Cmdr. Pete Hegan declared, "If they've got any sense, they'd have left. Things are getting hot here."

The three are wanted on FBI complaints, filed Monday, for investigation of illegal use and possession of automatic weapons.

The FBI decision to classify Miss Hearst as an SLA participant capped a wild weekend in which six members of the SLA, including its top leader, Cinque, died after an hour-long gun battle with 500 police at a south Los Angeles hideout.

The FBI said it concluded that Miss Hearst had joined the revolutionary clique which violently kidnapped her 3½ months ago after an 18-year-old youth identified her and the Harrises as the persons who kidnapped him for 12 hours and stole his truck in a getaway from a sporting goods store last Thursday. The FBI said it believed Miss Hearst fired 30 rounds of automatic rifle slugs into the store after Harris allegedly bungled an attempt to shoplift a 49-cent pair of socks.

William Sullivan, an FBI official in Los Angeles, said the bungled shoplifting started police into the rapid series of weekend developments in which they began to close in on the SLA for the first time. "If these people didn't make mistakes, it would be hard as hell to catch them," he said Monday.

Ohio Assembly opens fast-paced session

plus in the state treasury big enough to accommodate their spending proposal.

Olsen and Gov. John J. Gilligan deny the existence of such a surplus. Olsen had not been asked to appear on the GOP bill as of Monday, and an aide quoted him as saying if called, he would like "to know the full implications of what they are proposing."

Dennis has charged that the Gilligan bill is designed as a "pork barrel" in an election year, and otherwise contains "misplaced priorities." He is especially critical because the measure offers no tax relief — which he says the state can now afford.

Bickering on the spending proposals could produce a stalemate between the Democratic House and GOP-controlled Senate, and perhaps ruin their plans for early adjournment around mid-June.

In other action, the Senate votes today on a House-passed bill that would authorize owners of taverns, bars, and carryouts to sell state lottery tickets when they go on sale around mid-August.

They would be among some 10,000 lottery agents who will be licensed by the state to sell the 50-cent tickets, retaining a five per cent commission — or 2½ cents per ticket.

The House could call up for consideration today or Wednesday major Senate amendments to a House-passed bill to regulate abortions in Ohio. The Senate approved the measure last Thursday but only after sweeping changes that deleted a pregnancy timetable for permitting the operations. Instead, the bill limits abortions to physicians and makes them responsible for saving the life of a fetus born alive, if medically possible.

Action also could come this week in the House Rules Committee on a controversial bill to eliminate mayors' courts and create 38 new judgeships throughout the state.

The bill apparently will be assigned to a floor vote, however, only if advocates of mayors' courts believe they have the votes to delete their abolition from the bill.

Senators open health hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under pressure from President Nixon and Democratic leaders in Congress, a Senate panel is opening hearings on rival plans to establish a national program of health insurance.

Heading the witness list today before the Senate Finance subcommittee on health was Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Senate Democratic leaders are said to be pushing for quick action on health insurance, and Nixon on Monday repeated his similar call. He cautioned that with the end of wage-price controls, doctor bills threaten to increase by as much as 22 per cent this year.

The President's health plan would rely more on private insurance companies than would rival Democratic proposals.

Even some of the strongest backers of health-insurance reform are expressing doubts that a bill can be passed this year. The House Ways and Means Committee, which must originate such legislation, is holding hearings on health insurance and thus has not begun work on drawing a bill.

But Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., Ways and Means chairman, is a chief sponsor of the broadest health bill with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Basically, the Kennedy-Mills plan would set up a national health insurance program as part of the Social Security system. Persons under 65 would be covered through higher payroll taxes; an expanded Medicare program would protect the elderly and disabled.

The Nixon plan would operate mainly through private insurance companies. All employers would have to offer basic insurance to their employees, although the employees could opt not to participate. The states would be required to contract with insurance companies to cover low-income persons. The Medicare program for the elderly would be continued.

Basic benefits of the two plans generally would be the same, although deductibles and cost-sharing features would differ.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Finance Committee, and Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., are offering a plan keyed to protecting families against catastrophic illness—covering most medical expenses above $2,000 a year. It would expand and standardize the various state Medicaid programs, which were set up to pay health care costs for middle-income families.

Criminal justice standards for state eyed at meeting

BURR OAK STATE PARK, Ohio (AP)—Five task forces studying a comprehensive set of criminal justice standards for Ohio were to report today during a meeting of the Governor's Criminal Justice Supervisory Commission.

But commission Chairman John V. Corrigan of Cleveland said the group will not finalize its decisions on the standards until after holding public meetings in the fall.

The commission is studying almost 100 top-priority standards drawn from recommendations made by the National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals.

It's part of a multi-year standard setting program, Corrigan said. By 1976, he said, the commission will have accepted, rejected or modified 500 recommendations for improving the criminal justice system.

"The long-term work of the commission in establishing standards will affect Ohio's criminal justice system for years to come," Corrigan said. "Our recommendations will determine whether or not the future will be a safe time in which to live."

The commission is the policy making body for Ohio's $30 million Omnibus Crime Control program, operated by the Department of Economic and Community Development.

The task force reports were to be given at the final session of the three-day meeting, following a luncheon at which the main speaker was to be E. Preston Sharp, executive director of the American Correctional Association.

On Monday a federal attorney told the commission Ohio is tops in the country in analyzing and selecting standards and goals for improving its criminal justice system.

Tom Madden, general counsel for the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said Ohio's study compiling thousands of standards recommended by more than 100 national organizations into a workable

Fighting erupts at Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Fighting erupted on the outskirts of Phnom Penh today for the first time in two weeks, the Cambodian command reported.

The command said Khmer Rouge insurgents attacked a government outpost at Prek Leap, five miles north of the capital on an island at the confluence of the Mekong and Tonle Sap rivers. The command gave no details of the fighting.

On the east bank of the Mekong, a series of attacks was reported around Prek Luong village, Prek Thong, Wat Pun Phnom and Prek Tameak, five to 13 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, the command said.

It said government defenders intercepted a Khmer Rouge infiltration unit in the area and pushed back an insurgent night attack.

Khmer Rouge forces have moved along the eastern Mekong for five months, inflicting substantial losses on government troops in small but bloody clashes.

Elsewhere in Indochina, South Vietnamese forces kept up a major counter-offensive against a North Vietnamese thrust in the strategic "Iron Triangle" 25 miles north of Saigon.

Associated Press reporter Huynh Minh Trinh reported from Ben Cat, which is in the center of the fighting, that government warplanes and heavy artillery struck suspected Communist positions in the village of An Dien, 1 1/2 miles southwest of Ben Cat, which was captured by the North Vietnamese on Friday.

Military sources said government relief columns had not moved into An Dien because some civilians were believed to be trapped there, although field officers said most of the village's 2,000 population had moved out.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Fighting erupted on the outskirts of Phnom Penh today for the first time in two weeks, the Cambodian command reported.

The command said Khmer Rouge insurgents attacked a government outpost at Prek Leap, five miles north of the capital on an island at the confluence of the Mekong and Tonle Sap rivers. The command gave no details of the fighting.

On the east bank of the Mekong, a series of attacks was reported around Prek Luong village, Prek Thong, Wat Pun Phnom and Prek Tameak, five to 13 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, the command said.

It said government defenders intercepted a Khmer Rouge infiltration unit in the area and pushed back an insurgent night attack.

Khmer Rouge forces have moved along the eastern Mekong for five months, inflicting substantial losses on government troops in small but bloody clashes.

Elsewhere in Indochina, South Vietnamese forces kept up a major counter-offensive against a North Vietnamese thrust in the strategic "Iron Triangle" 25 miles north of Saigon.

Temperatures are expected to climb into the upper 70s and the 80s across Ohio Tuesday afternoon under mostly sunny skies, but by late afternoon there is a chance of a few showers or thundershowers over the southwest and extreme west portions of the state as a new low approaches.

A large high pressure area centered along the mid Atlantic coast Tuesday morning was moving slowly eastwards. Winds are becoming more southerly along the west side of the high, bringing the higher temperatures.

An extensive low pressure was building up over the central plains Tuesday morning and this will move eastward during the next couple of days. Humidity will increase and showers will spread eastward across the state tonight and Wednesday. Temperatures are expected to continue warm with overnight lows in the 50s and highs Wednesday in the upper 70s and low 80s.

Clearing Thursday, fair Friday and Saturday. Highs in the 70s Thursday and in the 60s Friday and Saturday. Lows in the 50s and low 60s Thursday and in the 40s Friday and Saturday.

Hopes high for Mideast agreement

JERUSALEM (AP)—Hopes remain high for a quick agreement to separate the warring Syrian and Israeli forces on the Golan Heights, despite reports that some "extremely complex" details were still to be worked out.

Aides to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said he was planning daily shuttles between the two countries at least until Friday and added that whether a pact is signed or not, Kissinger is returning to Washington next weekend.

United States officials said that for all practical purposes Kissinger had succeeded in working out a disengagement line, but State Department spokesman Robert Anderson told newsmen, "There isn't a line yet."

Anderson commented Monday night after a two-hour meeting in Jerusalem between Kissinger and the Israeli negotiating team.

"There are some minor issues to be resolved, the other collateral issues to go into a disengagement agreement, some of them extremely complex," Anderson said.

Kissinger later met privately with Premier Golda Meir. He scheduled further talks with Israeli leaders today before flying back to Damascus for a ninth round of discussions with President Hafaz Assad of Syria.

Israeli Information Minister Shimon Peres told newsmen he hoped an agreement could be worked out by the end of the week.

Asked if a snag had developed, Peres said: "There are some differences that had been expected, and some that had not been expected."

Earlier, as Kissinger returned to Israel from a four-hour session with Assad, the American diplomat said he and Assad had made "good progress" on several aspects of the hoped-for disengagement.

The main subject of negotiation now is said to be thinning Israeli forces immediately behind a demilitarized zone that would serve as a buffer between the separated armies.

Nursing scholarship program reviewed by hospital board

Financial matters, improvement of facilities and nursing scholarships were discussed at a meeting of the Fayette Memorial Hospital board of trustees Monday.

The board discussed the awarding of scholarships from the Wilbur Welton Memorial Scholarship Fund and decided to grant two scholarships, one for practical nursing and another for a student of a registered nursing school.

The grants will be awarded for tuition, books and related expenses, excluding room and board. A maximum amount of $2,000 per year is set on each.

Applications are restricted to Fayette County residents who have been accepted into any accredited two or three-year school of registered nursing, or to the Fayette Memorial Hospital school of practical nursing.

The practical nursing program is one year in length and the scholarship covers tuition related costs for the year. A grant in registered nursing will be continued for two or three years as long as the recipient maintains a record of good academic standing.

APPLICATIONS will be accepted by Robert L. Kunz, hospital administrator, until June 1. The scholarships will be awarded by July 15.

Nixon lashed

Nixon eventually turned over the tapes.

Gesell released a letter Monday that he received from the President in which Nixon denied any prior knowledge of the September 1971 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding. The alleged purpose of the mission was to obtain Ellsberg's psychiatric case file.

In the letter, dated April 29, Nixon said he considers leaks of security information such as the Pentagon Papers study "most critical to the national security of the United States and it was my intent, which I believe I conveyed, that the fullest authority of the President under the Constitution and the law should be used if necessary to bring a halt to these disclosures."

Six men were indicted in March on charges of conspiring to violate Fielding's civil rights. They were Ehrlichman, Colson, Felipe De Diego, a Cuban exile living in Miami, and Watergate conspirators G. Gordon Liddy, Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio R. Martinez.

Gesell said he wasn't convinced national security was an issue in the case or that it gave the government a right "to bust into somebody's house and steal their papers."

In other Watergate-related developments:

—Former White House Director of Communications Herbert G. Klein said Monday night he gave Nixon a report on public reaction to Watergate, in which he said he found people "very critical" but also "worried about change." Klein spoke to Nixon as both flew back to Washington from Key Biscayne, Fla.

—A Harris poll says more people believe former White House counsel Dean about the Watergate cover-up than President Nixon. The poll of 1,555 adults taken nationwide had 45 per cent believing Dean's version to 32 per cent accepting Nixon's word.

—A federal judge refused to dismiss a perjury indictment against California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke. Another motion by Reinecke, to have his trial moved to California, also was defeated. Afterwards, Reinecke said in Sacramento: "This is more of a political persecution, a political witchhunt, rather than a real judicial prosecution."

—And, Nixon's close friend, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, accused the Senate Watergate committee of trying to humiliate and embarrass him in seeking his personal and financial records.

suggested as one area of the hospital which needs improvement. The board has asked Kunz to investigate the possibilities and costs of such improvement.

An auction of obsolete hospital equipment will be held on the hospital grounds in mid-June. No date has yet been set.

Dr. Ralph Gebhart and Dr. Byers W. Shaw addressed the meeting as representatives of the medical staff to suggest that the board consider expansion of the hospital facilities. Improvements such as an increased number of beds, expanded therapy rooms and extended pharmaceutical laboratories were discussed. A committee is being formed to consider such matters.

The increasing costs of hospital supplies was also discussed. Kunz noted that since Jan. 1 supplies have risen at least five per cent.

He said that the elevation of the minimum wage level to $2 per hour increased hospital costs.

He pointed out that intravenous feeding solution has risen 17 per cent in cost during the past five months, some plastic items have risen as much as 67 per cent and trash hauling service has gone up 40 per cent.

In addition, he noted that the elevation of the minimum wage to $2 per hour has increased the operating cost of the hospital.

Although the matter was not fully analyzed at Monday's meeting, it seems apparent that the hospital will soon be raising its rates for rooms and services.

Hospital statistics for April showed that there were 348 admissions, a total of 2,110 in-patient days, yielding an average of 70.33 persons in the hospital each day.

By department there was 80.84 per cent occupancy of the hospital, 92.61 per cent in the medical and surgical division, 51.11 per cent in coronary care units, 45.55 per cent in pediatrics, and 45.12 per cent in obstetrics.

The average stay of hospital patients was 6.45 days, and 7.71 in the medical and surgical division, 2.55 in the coronary units, 3.03 in pediatrics, and 3.66 days in obstetrics.

There were 927 x-rays taken, 4,493 laboratory tests conducted, 1,202 patients treated in the emergency room, 326 sessions in physical therapy, 608 treatments of respiratory therapy, 79 major operations and 98 minor operations.

The average revenue per patient-day to date has been $73.58. The figure used when creating the budget for the year was $69.72. The national average is $104.49, Kunz said.

Cost to the hospital per patient-day has averaged $73.74. A figure of $70.34 was anticipated in the budget, and the national average is $103.00.

The cost per admission for their entire stay has averaged $446.60. The anticipated figure was $438.13 and the national average is $766.76.

There is an average of 2.6 hospital employees per patient at all times.

Southern Ohio set for 17-year cicada

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — This is the year of the 17-year cicada, the damaging insect you may call the 17-year locust.

Thirteen Ohio counties are due visits from the cicada and already its buzzing song is being heard in the woods, the prelude to egg-laying and damage to trees and fruit.

In reporting the pending plague, Dr. Richard Miller of the Ohio State University Agricultural Extension Service listed Hamilton, Butler, Warren, Clinton, Fayette, Ross, Pike, Scioto, Lawrence, Gallia, Brown, Adams and Highland counties as the cicada targets.

"There's no real way of telling the damage," said Dr. Miller, "but it probably will run into the thousands of dollars."

"We get damage in two ways. We get the damage from the egg-laying female, who lays her eggs in the twigs of trees and shrubs, particularly hardwoods.

"The female opens gashes in the twigs in laying the eggs from the tip back 18 inches. The branch dies later. Or on young fruit trees the cicada may kill its growth."

"Then the young cicada after hatching burrows into the ground attaches itself to the roots of the tree for 17 years before it emerges. The trees lose vigor and don't thrive well as a result of thousands of cicadas feeding on the tree sap."

The number of cicadas, Dr. Miller said, will run into the millions.

"It's not uncommon for the cicada to shed its skin and have three or four thousand skins at the base of one tree," he said.

This year's invasion of the 17-year cicada isn't the big one. In 1982, entomologists forecast, the entire eastern half of Ohio, from Lake Erie to the Ohio River, will be plagued by the insect, and in 1987 the entire western half of Ohio.

You can tell the 17-year cicada by its roof-like transparent wings with orange veins, said Dr. Miller.

If you want to protect shrubs or small trees during the two weeks or so the plague will last before it disappears for another 17 years, he said, cover the plants with cheese cloth or netting with squares a quarter inch or less.

And, don't confuse the 17-year variety with the two-year cicada, a green one twice as big as the former insect, even if they sound alike.

Kiwanis Club names Foster as president

The board of directors of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club met Monday night at the Lafayette Inn and considered an extensive agenda, including the selection of officers for the 1974-75 year.

Serving the club as president, beginning Oct. 1, will be Guy Foster, superintendent of the Miami Trace School District. He replaces George Gibbs, the current president. Grooming for the presidency for 1975-76 will be the president-elect, Duane French.

The election of other officers, possible fund-raising programs, disbursement of funds, and the Christman Award program were other items considered at the meeting.

Gary Ivers, an officer of the Buckeye Auto Association, was present to suggest that the club sponsor a midget auto race as a fund-raising project. The proposal will be considered in more depth at a later meeting.

Money was voted to various area youth groups, including the Washington Senior High and Miami Trace American Field Service chapters, $35 each; the bicycle safety radeo, $50 for awards and prizes; and the Boy Scouts, $40 to defray expenses of one scout for the troop's Canadian wilderness trip.

A motion was carried to award four scholarships of $200 each to deserving graduating high school seniors. Two students from each high school will receive a scholarship.

It was announced that the Christman Award program will be held June 3 in the Lafayette Inn. The award to the county's outstanding athlete-scholar, which is co-sponsored by the Kiwanis Club and the Record-Herald, will be presented at the dinner.

Other persons elected to serve in office for the 1974-75 year were Tom Mossbarger, vice president; Bob Tice, treasurer; and Steve Jennings and Bob Angus on the board of directors.

An award for having maintained perfect attendance at meetings for the past seven years was presented to Gerald Begin. Dick Maddux made the presentation.

Era of cheap food at an end in U.S.

CHICAGO (AP) — One way to slow the skyrocketing price of food may be to give butchers laser beams instead of knives, says a marketing professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"The era of cheap food in America is at an end," Dr. Gordon F. Bloom of MIT said in an interview after addressing a conference on world hunger.

He said innovative measures such as cutting meat with laser beams rather than knives may be a few years away, but that such moves designed to increase efficiency in the food industry are among the few remaining ways to stem rising food costs.

He said attempts to unionize what used to be low-paid, migratory field hands, 15 to 20 per cent increases in retail labor costs and consumer and environmental legislation had combined with increased marketing costs and higher farm income to drive food prices up 20 per cent in 1973.

Bloom said supermarkets in particular have been slow to develop new technology to lower labor costs which, he said, take 50 cents of every food dollar spent after the product leaves the farm.

Supermarket operations, except for the self-service aspect, are essentially unchanged from the corner grocery store that they began to replace 25 years ago, he said.

The average wage rate among employees from cashiers and stockboys to managers is more than $4 an hour in the supermarket, Bloom said.

"People don't realize this is a high-wage industry. In a few years, it's going to be $6. Yet where is the change in technology? The young grocery clerk still loads shelves by hand."

Bloom suggested that the industry make a cooperative effort to eliminate inefficiencies such as those he said exist in packaging and shipping. He also suggested new ways of cooperation to stimulate innovative cost-saving ideas.

"For example," he said, "Why is it necessary to cut meat from a bone with a knife or a saw? Why can't the butcher use a laser or a sonic beam?"

"There's no panacea for rising food prices. But there are a lot of little things that could have a cumulative effect. The food business is a business of decimal points and an accumulation of a lot of small things ultimately leads to high prices."

Wise move on highway speed

There is a tendency to poke fun at the 55-mile-per-hour highway speed limit imposed by Congress as a fuel conservation measure. Some seek to give the impression that only fuddy-duddies can be expected to poke along at such a pace - that red-blooded American drivers deserve better of the authorities.

This view appears to be based largely on a yen for self-gratification. It does not weigh very heavily in the balance against the two prime reasons for holding to the 55-mph limit.

The most persuasive of these reasons is that lowering highway speeds throughout the nation has demonstrably saved many lives in the short time this has been in effect. That old safety slogan, Speed Kills, is vindicated.

The nub of the matter is that at some small inconvenience to those who prefer going a lot faster than the present limit, more than 1,000 people who would have been highway death victims are still living.

Secondly we have the matter of fuel conservation. The basic argument for reducing highway speeds was to save gasoline in a time of pressing scarcity. The measure did save gasoline. We should continue to use it to save gasoline, in the face of indications that otherwise there will be new shortages.

All in all, it is gratifying that the Senate has sharply rejected a move to get rid of the 55-mile-an-hour maximum.

Oil watchword is 'Be Careful'

Durham, N. H., turned down its opportunity to get an oil refinery. And now, if Sen. Abe Ribicoff is to be accepted as its spokesman, Connecticut is showing uneasiness about accepting a proposal to construct a refinery on a shoal in Long Island Sound near the mouth of the Connecticut River.

If things go on this way, New England will always be at the mercy of outside interests insofar as providing for its fuel needs is concerned.

The trouble with New Englanders and Long Islanders is that they want to eat their cake and have it. They want heating oil and gasoline, but they don't want a supposedly unesthetic refinery or some unsightly oil derricks on the horizon. The attitude is: "Let New Jersey's Perth Amboy and Louisiana's Baton Rouge take the grief."

This way of looking at things is nationally divisive, and the time will surely come when the people who live around the Gulf of Mexico will combine to treat New Englanders in a fuel crisis the way the Arabs have treated the U.S. and Western Europe.

Besides, why should it be considered so degrading to live within sight of industrial architecture? A modern refinery need not be dirty or un-beautiful.

THE URGE to isolate one's self from the workaday world has always seemed to me a mark of decadence. I'll never forget the dismaying feeling I had when I first went to live in Washington, D.C., a city in which the only industry was the talk industry. Washington, in 1944, was a place without smokestacks, but there was plenty of hot air coming from the politicians.

Having spent some six years travelling for Fortune magazine to such humming workshops as Pittsburgh, Detroit and the small, industrial towns of Ohio and Indiana, I seemed to be isolated in talk-shop Washington from basic human endeavor.

After a few years of communing with lawyer-politicos on Capitol Hill, who actually believed that the American economy couldn't run if they weren't there to vote new powers to the alphabet-soup bureaucracies. I found myself begging for out-of-town assignments.

I longed for contact with industrial

Ohio Perspective Common Cause flexes muscles

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Avery Friedman, coordinator of Common Cause's campaign disclosure project, turned up a curious phenomenon after reviewing the results of Ohio's recent Democratic and Republican primary elections.

Friedman said Democrats who voluntarily disclosed their campaign contributions and expenses won their party's support, while Republicans who complied lost.

The 27-year-old Cleveland lawyer said this group had asked all statewide candidates to file two reports listing all contributions and expenses over $25 before the primary. They also have asked the candidates to file comprehensive reports by June 21.

The purpose is to let Ohio voters know how politicians raise and spend their money to get elected.

Most political observers credited the outcome to party endorsements or personal popularity rather than Common Cause.

Friedman said, "Common Cause didn't make the difference, but it was a factor."

He pointed to the Democratic races for governor and lieutenant governor. "Gov. John J. Gilligan said 'yes' to our voluntary campaign and won," he said. "His opponent, James D. Nolan, said 'no' and lost."

But the telling election was the nine-way race for lieutenant governor. "Here you got a guy like Richard Celeste, who was the strongest supporter of Common Cause, and he beat Anthony Calabrese, who rejected our program," he said.

Friedman said, "I would attribute that to the fact that Celeste represents the honest, open candidate, and I think he represents the future."

State Sen. Tony Hall of Dayton, who won the Democratic party nod for secretary of state, was "extremely conscientious and energetic," Friedman said. "His reports were comprehensive."

But Friedman said, "There was something very significant about the Republican primary."

State Rep. Charles E. Fry of Springfield "ran as Mr. Clean, but didn't impress the stalwarts of the party," he said. "They backed former Gov. James A. Rhodes, who refused to participate in our project."

Rhodes won the party's nomination for governor by a 2-1 margin over Fry. Friedman said the same thing happened in the GOP race for attorney general.

"They voted for Franklin County Prosecutor George Smith, who refused," Friedman said. "Stanley Aronoff of Cincinnati complied and ran third."

Friedman said, "I think the attorney general's race reflected the mentality of Republicans who have not been sensitized by Watergate."

"Maybe the Republicans tolerated non-disclosure in the primary," he said. "But I don't think the vast majority of Democrats are going to tolerate non-disclosure in the November general election."

"The candidates have been picking up on this, and I think there will be even more pointed pressure on those candidates who don't disclose. It doesn't represent partisan politics, but honesty in government."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Youthful 'games' can lead to pregnancy

DEAR ABBY: I nearly weep every time I read a letter from a pregnant teen-ager pleading for help. So few people know that the sex act need not be completed in order to impregnate a female.

I was a medic in the service. When I got married, my ward doctor loaned me a medical book that he'd used in counseling young people. From that book I learned that when a man starts to get excited, a few drops of neutralizing fluid is released to neutralize any uric acid in the male urinary canal. It is nature's way of clearing a safe path for the delicate sperm cells to pass through at termination of the sex act.

Lab tests have shown that occasionally a few sperm cells are present in this fluid. It occurs most frequently in teenagers, since this is when the male is at the peak of his fertility.

Abby, please tell young people, if they plan to go beyond kissing and holding hands, they should take all the necessary precautions a couple would take in preventing pregnancy. "Fooling around a little" can be just as dangerous as "going all the way."

I am a father and grandfather who is concerned about our youth, so if this information can help someone, you may have my permission to change it anyway you like so as not to offend anyone.

UNCLE STANLEY

DEAR ABBY: I've written to thousands of frightened teen-agers personally advising them of this fact. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to publicize this valuable, but little known information more broadly. Of course the ideal means of preventing pregnancy is abstinence, but realistic people know that the flesh is weak. I am not advocating "fooling around" but the punishment involved far outweighs the "crime."

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the expression "to gyp" someone having come from the word gypsy. My personal pet peeve is the phrase "he Jewed me down." And in this day of auctions, thrift shops, flea mzkrets, etc., it is distressingly frequent.

My technique is to ask the Jew-er downer to teach me his bargaining technique because I'd like to know how to "gentle" somebody down. All but the most thick-headed clods seem to get the message.

Let's hear it for good old Christian charity!

NANCY SENTER, L.A., CAL.

DEAR ABBY: Is it proper for a gentleman to smoke a pipe in the presence of a lady without first asking if she minds?

DEAR CURIOUS: It is not proper for a gentleman to smoke ANYTHING in the presence of a lady without asking if anyone minds. And the same goes for a lady.

Money Does Matter . . .

By R. W. Tice

HOW TO SAVE MONEY WITHOUT A SAVINGS ACCOUNT . . .

It's a good idea to have one — a savings account — but you do not need one in order to save money (and we're not thinking about the money-in-a-shoe alternative).

Here are some tips on what to do, and NOT to do, when involved in financial matters:

DO NOT leave a Bank Teller's station in a hurry, whether inside or outside the facility. Before leaving carefully count your change and put all valuables away. You're a good prospect for a thief if you try to put things in order while you are on the run.

DO NOT leave packages unattended. While Bank officers and employees are trained to be alert, losses can occur.

DO treat all credit cards as if they are money. Lose one, or have it stolen, and you are liable for up to $50, if that card is used fraudulently. At once cancel any missing cards, have new ones issued. With a $50 liability risk on each card, you could be in for trouble.

A little thought, care, and common sense can save you a lot of hard-earned money.

Congratulations to the Wayne Township Firemen and to the Concord-Green Township Firemen upon their successful completion of their 10 week course in becoming more proficient in their endeavor, and to Lt. Seaman of the Washington C. H., Fire Department for his capable instruction.

Congratulations to Tim Morrow upon receiving the AFS international scholarship. May his visit to Denmark be informative and entertaining.

To Chuck Wilson upon his appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy and receiving a $300.00 scholarship award.

And to: Edith Ingram, Belinda Bonner, Diane Lewis, Jane Ann Kiger, Diane Conley, Lynn Sagar and Cindy Roark for being chosen as Delegates to Buckeye Girls State.

At our Bank, your First National Bank of Wash. C. H., we like to see people save money regularly in a savings account. But, we're just as much concerned that they save money by not losing it. Let us help you in any way we can!

Hairdresser says curls will have fashion

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It is very "tart-y" to wear heavy eye makeup with the new soft hairdos and clothes, hairdresser Maurice Tidy, 32, advises his youthful clients who want to identify "with the new ladylike look." The popular hairdresser, who began his career at 14 in London, is called upon to advise his clientele on all aspects of grooming. And he readily does so.

If a girl is going to be sensuous, she should be sensuous — she may want to find release but she need not lose perspective in reverting to the '30s look."

"The most sensuous parts of a woman's face are her eyes and lips," he says. Eyes should be soft and lips pale.

It is the younger girls — 18 to 30 — who are involved in fashion experimentation, "sort of like children with their mother's makeup," he has observed.

"They have enjoyed wearing jeans, their own art form, but now they find they also can wear clothes that reflect sensitivity without sacrificing the right to fight for their opinions."

All day in his Madison Avenue salon, staffed mostly with young Englishmen who like himself formerly worked in the salons of Vidal Sassoon in the United States and in England, Tidy listens. He listens to the girls who are deciding about new hair styles, trying out henna rinses and talking about their reformation. It is a simpatico atmosphere — the staff has experienced the same kind of growing pains.

"Now that these girls have decided they can go the other fashion way without sacrificing their freedom, they love it. I've never seen so many sit in front of a mirror and just stare as if they were seeing themselves for the first time. It is a very emotional period in their lives," Tidy insists.

"It is really a period of rejuvenation," he continued. "When I came to America the norm was to keep one haircut for 20 years or so. They were in a groove, but it is gradually changing. In England, Paris and Rome change comes faster. But the American girl is on to it all now."

A tall, earnest type, Tidy does not suggest that curly-haired girls straighten their hair and then have it curled for the new curly look as some hairdressers have advocated. In fact, he thinks straightening deprives them of their own natural thing — having curls gives them the fashion edge.

"Hair, curly or not, is not really going totally back to the '30s because there will not be one set look. It can be kept short toward the face and brushed away from the face to soften the cheekbones, but hair in back can be any length."

Credit alarm bells ringing more insistently

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) —

The latest signal of a deterioration in the quality of credit comes from the New York Stock Exchange, where margin customers increased their debt to brokers by $40 million in April.

This figure in itself may have only minor significance to all but those involved, but when placed in context the point is quickly understood: It is the fourth straight monthly rise and it brings to at least $5.4 billion the amount of borrowed money supporting stock prices.

It is hardly safe to assume that the total amount of money owed on corporate shares isn't even higher, because margin customers sometimes borrow from other lenders too and are known even to mortgage their homes.

Margin in the stock market is like a down payment in the automobile or housing market. At the moment it takes 50 per cent down to become a margin customer of a broker, who lends the buyer the remaining funds.

However, as anyone knows who has ever played the stock market game, the price per share of a company can fall as well as rise, and the former has been the case for hundreds of stocks in the past few months.

The effective margin rate, therefore, often drops below 50 per cent.

In April, the exchange noted that "the quality of security credit deteriorated noticeably." Margin debt in accounts under 40 per cent equity rose to $1.98 billion. And the percentage of such accounts rose to 16 per cent from 12 per cent of all margined portfolios.

As the prices of many stocks continued to decline, the collateral left in margin accounts shrank, of course, by about $680 million, to a total of $13.2 billion.

The signal that flashes from such statistics is the likelihood of more margin calls, or demands by brokers for customers to put up more funds in order to maintain a certain level of equity.

If, for instance, a customer has $10,000 credit on $20,000 worth of stock, he has 50 per cent margin and 50 per cent equity. But if the market value shrinks to $15,000, he now has 67 per cent margin, 33 per cent equity.

In order to safeguard his loan, the broker sends off a telegram to his customer, notifying him that if he doesn't produce a certain additional amount of collateral by a certain date he will sell some of the securities.

Sowle resignation likely to stick

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio University President Claude R. Sowle agreed Monday to reconsider his resignation, but also told the board of trustees the chances he will change his mind are "very, very remote."

Because of the likelihood that the 46-year-old Sowle will stand firm in his decision to quit this summer, board Chairman William R. Morris announced he will appoint a presidential search committee "in a few days."

"In light of all factors concerned, I feel it necessary to consider all possible eventualities," Morris said.

Sowle cited insane conditions at the 12,000-student, state-supported school in announcing his resignation. He expressed dismay that "the dedicated selfless efforts of so many can be nullified by the senseless acts of so few."

The resignation came after nine days of student disturbances and demands from minority students and student labor groups.

It was learned Monday that Sowle had received a threat that he or members of his family would be kidnapped if he did not meet demands of dissident students.

However, school officials labeled the

This situation often provokes a crisis for the customer, who understandably doesn't wish to have his stock sold because the price is so low — he bought it with the opposite hope in mind — but who cannot afford to risk more cash.

In an untold number of cases, for example, the individual might have bought the stocks on margin simply because he didn't have the entire purchase price. If he didn't have it then, how will he get it now when he's poorer?

Nobody is ringing the alarm bells about the condition of stock market credit at the moment, but concern is rising, just as it is in other credit areas where deterioration is showing up. If the trend continues, the alarms will go off.

The delinquency ratio for all commercial bank installment loans rose to 2.69 per cent in the first two months of the year, the highest since the figures were first compiled about 30 years ago.

And some home mortgage lenders report that loan delinquencies are up. The Mortgage Bankers Association, for one, reported delinquencies rose to 4.7 per cent at the close of 1973, the highest since such records were begun.

students as it is for students to stomach budget cuts in their academic areas," the newspaper said Monday in an editorial.

wars, the paper said, "students complain now of things they lack, like black programs and a student workers union."

A school spokesman said recent events may have hastened Sowle's decision to resign, but the move had been in the making for a long time.

The longest measure of time is the kalpa in Hindu chronology. It is equivalent to 4,320 million years.

Wynn's homers break Reds' skein

Top pro players selected by New Orleans expansion

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The latest entry into the National Basketball Association walked away from the expansion draft with the best back court combination in the league, according to its owner.

Fred Rosenfeld, owner of the new New Orleans franchise is particularly jubilant when he refers to the man selected to team up with superstar Pete

Maravich in on the back line—Stu Lantz.

"Stu, along with Maravich, gives us arguably the best back court in achievement for us to claim this," he said.

Lantz, a six-year veteran from Detroit, averaged 8.9 points last season.

Rosenfeld also believes the team has

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim Wynn says, yes, by gosh, he can lead the National League in home runs.

"I'd sure like to anyway," he said Monday night after he'd blasted home runs No. 13 and 14 to lead Los Angeles to a 5-3 victory over Cincinnati.

Los Angeles' 11th triumph in its last 13 starts halted Cincinnati's win streak at four and improved the Dodgers' lead to seven games over the second-place Reds in the National League West.

"I do know this, it's the best start I've ever had," Wynn said after his four runs batted in, giving him 41 for the season which tied him with Texas' Jeff Burroughs for the major league RBI lead. "I couldn't be happier about the way things are going."

Neither can the Dodgers. Wynn's three-run homer in the first provided a 3-0 lead against Cincinnati ace Jack Billingham and then his bases-empty homer in the fifth proved to be the decisive blow.

Joe Morgan slugged a two-run homer in the sixth that cut the Los Angeles lead to a 5-2 and Morgan singled home a third run in the fifth.

Later, Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson was fuming about the treatment received by his left fielder, Pete Rose, from the fans in the left field pavilion.

Rose was pelted with wads of paper, ice, rolls of toilet paper and said Anderson, "unbelievable vulgarity."

Anderson said he threatened to take his team off the field if it didn't stop and he conferred prior to the fifth inning with umpire Chris Pelekoudas.

"I'm unhappy about the ice and the vulgarity," Anderson said. "I can't see how they can allow people to sit out there and yell what they were yelling."

Rose said he doesn't mind a few boos. "But the vulgarity is something else. I can't imagine a guy sitting next to his wife and yelling that stuff. What kind of men are they? They're gutless."

Wynn, who has captured the fans in the center field seats, said, "I think the fans really like Pete. They're just excited about our ballclub, that's all."

"Pete is such a competitor. I guess a lot of it stems from the flare-up he had last season in the playoffs (against the Mets)."

Play was stopped several times while grounds keepers removed the toilet paper rolls. An announcement on the message board and over the public address system halted most of the throwing, but not the obscenities.

Tommy John, 6-1, earned the victory but required relief help from Mike Marshall, who appeared for the 25th time.

Marshall struck out Johnny Bench in the eighth, who represented the tying run at the time, and then got the Reds in order in the ninth. It marked his fifth successive appearance in which he hasn't allowed a run.

"It's getting together now," he said. "It's just a matter of getting regular work."

Cubs 2, Mets 1

Burt Hooton pitched a four-hitter and Billy Williams drove in both Chicago runs with a sixth-inning single to lead the Cubs past the Mets.

Expos 4, Pirates 2

Bob Bailey scored two runs and drove in another to pace the Montreal triumph over Pittsburgh.

Starter Mike Torrez got relief help from Chuck Taylor, but picked up his first victory over the Pirates since Sept. 10, 1972.

Willie Stargell singled in both of Pittsburgh's runs in the eighth inning. The other Montreal run scored on a wild pitch by Jim Rooker.

Padres 8, Astros 6

Willie McCovey drove in four runs with three hits, helping San Diego hand Houston its 10th consecutive loss.

Houston sped to a 4-0 lead in the second inning, but the Padres came back and pulled ahead 6-4 on McCovey's three-run double in the fourth. The Astros tied it on Cliff Johnson's two-run homer, but Fred Kendall broke the deadlock with a seventh-inning double and added insurance in the eighth.

Philis 2, Cards 1

Left-hander Steve Carlton pitched an eight-hitter and singled in one of Philadelphia's runs to carry the Phillies past St. Louis for his fourth straight victory.

excellent balance.

"We have good big forwards and good small forwards; we have good big guards and good little guards; we have depth at center," he said of the 15 players he picked from the established NBA teams.

John Block, 6-foot-10, of Kansas City-Omaha, and Steve Kuberski, 6-8, chosen from the world champion Boston Celtics, are expected to do the heavy work as forwards. And rugged Dennis Awtrey, 6-10, from the Chicago Bulls probably will start at center.

In the four years since the league last expanded only the Buffalo Braves have achieved any notable success making it into the playoffs this year for the first time.

The most successful of the second generation clubs—and the one whose record the New Orleans team would most like to equal—is the Milwaukee Bucks.

New Orleans had the luxury of picking players in the draft without competition from other first-year teams, a fact Rosenfeld cited when he said he expects the still nameless franchise to post a better first year record than expansion teams of the past.

Other players selected are: Jim Barnett, 6-4 guard from Golden State; Walt Bellamy, 6-11 pivot from the Atlanta Hawks; Barry Clemens, 6-7 forward, Cleveland; E.C. Coleman, 6-8 forward, Houston; Lamar Green, 6-8 forward, Phoenix; Nate Hawthorne, 6-4 guard, Los Angeles; Ollie Johnson, 6-5 forward, Portland; Bud Stallworth, 6-5 forward, Seattle; Toby Kimball, forward, 6-8 forward, Philadelphia; Louis Nelson, 6-3 guard, Washington, and Curtis Perry, 6-7 forward, Milwaukee.

Rosenfeld says he expects a spirited competition among these men for the five starting spots. "We will have an old-fashioned camp in which everyone has to fight for position," he said.

Cash ejected in Tigers' loss

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

Norm Cash lost his glove, an argument and a ballgame all in one shot Monday night.

Incensed over a "fair" call on Dave May's double down the right field line in the eighth inning, the Detroit Tigers' first baseman threw down his glove in disgust and let umpire Bill Kunkel have it.

It did the Tigers no good, though—they dropped a 6-4 decision to the Milwaukee Brewers.

"I don't usually blow my cool out there, but this was too much," said Cash. "That ball was foul by six or eight inches. Kunkel was too close to the play. It skipped behind him before he could turn around."

May's hit drove in the Brewers' winning runs—and it was fair, insisted Kunkel.

Cash's temper display got him an early shower. Kunkel threw him out. In the only other American League game Monday night, the Oakland A's trimmed the Minnesota Twins 5-4.

Charlie Moore opened the Brewers' winning rally in the eighth with a walk and moved to second on a bounce. Pedro Garcia was intentionally walked and Tim Johnson singled to load the bases.

May then delivered his two-run double off Tiger reliever John Hiller, 5-3, and Cash delivered his heated words to Kunkel.

A's 5, Twins 0

Hot-hitting Angel Mangual slugged a run-scoring triple and added two singles, then Oakland held off a late Minnesota rally to beat the Twins.

The A's led 5-0 at one point, but Minnesota scored a run in the seventh on a single by Jerry Terrell and a triple by Harmon Killebrew. The Twins scored three more in the ninth on RBI hits by Rod Carew, Killebrew and Bobby Darwin before reliever Darold Knowles shut the door.

Ashlawn wins Lebanon feature

The daily double returned $51.00 on the 3-1 combination of Phylarob and Oakwood Jug.

A crowd of 1,355 wagered $94,893.

Four games open Little League slate

Opening night of the Washington Little League offered everyone two entirely different types of games to watch. In the opener of the Major Leagues at Wilson Field, Downtown Drug nipped the Mustangs 3-2 in a pitchers' duel; while in the nighttime, the Jets out-slugged Charge-A-Check 9-5 in a come-from-behind victory.

Mustangs took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first frame. However, Downtown Drug came up with a run in the final three stanzas to provide the difference.

Downtown Drug's Murphy hurled a three-hitter, as he struck out 13 batters and yielded only one walk. His counterpart, Melvin, gave up four hits, as he struck out 10 and walked three.

Clark Lee homered twice and cracked a double to lead the Jets to a 9-5 win. Lee, who was also the Jets' pitcher, picked up the mound decision with a five-hitter, as he yielded 10 walks and 10 strikeouts.

Bush collected two doubles for the losers. Sheppard homered and Dean doubled for the Jets.

In the Minor League games at Armbrust Field, 1st Federal stopped County Bank 14-12 and Sagars registered a 14-11 win over Agrico.

Marti swung the big bat for 1st Federal, as he knocked out a pair of doubles and a home run. Valentine added another home run to 1st Federal's tally and Vermillion had a pair of doubles for County Bank.

Ken Eddleman struck out 10 batters in Sagars' victory. Three of the five hits he gave up were a double and triple by Jerry Guilt and a homer to Steven Jones.

Sagars had four extra base hits in the contest. Tracy Noel and Chip Wilt doubled, while Mike Johnson and Johnny Enochs had triples.

City schools eye summer maintenance projects

Members of the Washington C.H. Board of Education Monday night reviewed a partial list of 12 summer maintenance projects and accepted bids for painting at two schools.

The board also dealt with a number of miscellaneous matters during the meeting, including approving a list of graduation candidates and the adoption of three new policies.

(See separate stories on board's decision to appeal case to Ohio Supreme Court and tennis court renovation proposal).

SUMMER maintenance projects reviewed by board members were:

- Repair of middle school sidewalks;
- repainting of outside trim and upstairs auditorium lobby at middle school building;
- painting of fire escape and setting of playground equipment at Cherry Hill;
- constructing a catch basin and resurfacing front parking area at WSHS;
- sealing blacktop at Belle Aire and Eastside;
- installation of a folding partition of WSHS and equipping ninth grade science room;
- sealing roof, repair of spouting and painting of outside trim at Rose Avenue;
- rebuilding tennis court enclosure at Gardner Park;
- repairing stadium restrooms;
- roofing stadium press box and miscellaneous repairs at middle school.

The board accepted a bid for repainting of the outside trim at the middle school building. The contract was awarded to Anderson Decorating Service, 207 W. East St., which submitted a bid of $3,160. The same firm also was awarded a contract for repainting of trim at Rose Avenue Elementary School with a bid of $1,240. Both jobs must be completed by Aug. 15. Only one other bid was submitted for the middle school project. The bid, totaling $8,600, was submitted by Virgil Morgan, 1006 S. Fayette St.

Two other bids were received by the

Improved tennis facilities proposed at Gardner Park

A proposal regarding the repair and improvement of tennis courts at Gardner Park and public use of the stadium's fieldhouse was presented to members of the Washington C.H. Board of Education Monday night.

James Ward, 549 Damon Dr., and Rick Stinson, 154 Carolyn Rd., presented the proposal which requested the board to consider the possibility of resurfacing two idle tennis courts at Gardner Park and opening the fieldhouse for showering and locker facilities for those using the tennis courts. City Manager Dan Wolford supported Ward and Stinson in the presentation of the proposal.

Ward said estimated cost of resurfacing the two damaged courts would be approximately $2,600. The courts would be resurfaced with a green vinyl-type coating which would reflect light and provide better drainage. The coating is specially designed for tennis

By The Associated Press

Thundershowers mingled with warm, sticky air over the nation's midsection today, while clear skies and cool temperatures crisped the Northwest, Southwest and Northeast.

Several tornadoes were sighted in the Plains, from Childress, Tex., to Broken Bow, Neb. At Maddock, N.D., a twister destroyed a grain bin and aircraft hanger, while another set down at Poplar Bluff, Mo., uprooting trees and damaging property.

No injuries were reported.

Showers sprinkled the region from North Dakota to Oklahoma and Illinois, and a flashflood watch continued through the night in eastern South Dakota.

Scattered rain mixed with snow at higher elevations fell in the northern Rockies, and a travel advisory was in effect in parts of Montana. Lewistown, Mont., was hit with 4 inches of snow during the night.

Freeze warnings were issued for high spots in the Northwest and New Mexico, and temperatures dropped into the 40s and upper 30s in the Northeast.

Readings before dawn ranged from 28 at Houlton, Maine to 80 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Clerk reports car purchases

Fayette Counties purchased 82 new cars and 47 new trucks during April, according to the monthly report issued by Mrs. Catherine L. Hyer, clerk of courts.

Cars purchased included 14 Fords, 15 Chevrolets, 16 Plymouths, 4 Dodges, 4 Mercurys, 9 Pontiacs, one Opel, 4 Oldsmobiles, 4 Chryslers, one Buick, one Cadillac, 5 Volkswagens, one Javelin, one Fiat, one Ambassador and one Toyota.

New Trucks purchased were 12 Fords, 24 Chevrolets, one Dodge, 4 Internationals, 5 GMCs and one Mazda.

The office issued 1,296 certificates of title during the month. There were 412 notations of liens and 352 lien cancellations.

Little girl killed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Kathy Killings, 9, of Cincinnati was killed Monday when she ran into the path of a car while playing, police said.

She became the city's 22nd traffic fatality.

It was the nickels and dimes of children that paid for the 89-foot-high pedestal for the Statue of Liberty in 1886.

board for the Rose Avenue painting project. They were Calvin Williamson Decorating Service, U.S. 62-S, $1,425, and Morgan, $1,400.

PERSONNEL employed by board members to assist with the summer maintenance program were Richard Roth, Dean Perrill, Charles Stemple, Richard Boggs and John Anders. The extended employment of Mrs. Ethel Stewart through June 18 as an assistant custodian at Eastside Elementary School was approved.

A new policy pertaining to the payment for mileage on personal vehicles was approved. The district's present rate paid on approved travel is 8 cents per mile except for vocational teachers who received 9 cents per mile. In view of the increased fuel costs, the board hiked the payment to 10 cents per mile effective Sept. 1, 1974.

A written policy to govern the selection of materials in the district's libraries was approved. Basically, the librarian will be responsible for selection, but questioned materials will be withdrawn from circulation until discussed by a library committee.

Recommendations to govern the implementation of a severance pay policy, originally adopted by the board last Jan. 21 were approved. The board approved the policy recommendations subject to possible amendments regarding repeat or duplicate severance pay.

A LIST of 157 graduation candidates was approved for commencement ceremonies at WSHS, subject to completion of all graduation requirements. Combined commencement and baccalaureate rites will be held Sunday, June 2.

In other matters: Resignations were accepted from Miss Shirley Carmichael, elementary play. Cost of asphalt resurfacing would be about $2,000.

A STUDY has been conducted by Stinson regarding lighting for the tennis courts. He said eight lights (four poles with two lights each) would be required to light the two courts. Stinson estimated the poles would cost between $20 and $70 each and it was suggested that lights owned by the board which were recently removed from Gardner Park Stadium be used for the tennis courts.

Stinson said estimated cost for wiring and poles would be about $200 and labor for installation would be the only other expense experienced by the board since the lights owned by the school would be adequate. The city has 15 lights which could be made available also, according to Wolford.

It was pointed out that the cost of the project could be shared by the tennis participants by installing a coin-operated timer on the light poles, similar to ones in surrounding cities.

Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor pointed out that while the two back tennis courts are useless, a renovation project is presently under way.

A Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce study on recreational aspects here recently disclosed that the city has enough facilities, but they are not being utilized properly.

WARD INQUIRED about the board's feelings toward leasing the courts to a private concern which would finance the project, but board members said it would be interested in exploring the feasibility of the proposal.

Fred Domenico said the board is primarily concerned with the proper use of the facilities and he hopes that the Community Education program could absorb supervision of the fieldhouse, if opened for shower and locker facilities for those tennis players and others who could exercise on the stadium track.

Board President James Wilson said the board would need an exact cost figure to completely study the possibility of the proposal.

A six-member committee of Hank Shaffer, community education program director, Domenico, Wilson, Wolford, Ward and Stinson, was formed to explore the proposal more deeply. The committee scheduled a meeting for 7:30 a.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

Tennis has gained tremendous popularity here in the last two years. This year over 100 persons registered for beginning tennis lessons being offered through the Community Education program at Eyman Park.

East Liverpool water pinch still unabated

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—Emergency water-saving measures continued in effect in East Liverpool today as divers were called in to try to clear a jammed intake pipe to the water plant.

Public and parochial schools which were closed Monday remained shut today. Mayor Norman Bucher also asked industries and businesses which use water heavily to close down.

The Hall China Co. and the Louthan plant of Ferro Corp. shut down. The two plants employ a total of about 800 persons.

Officials in this city of 20,000 said the problems which developed over the weekend had cut the water intake to about half of normal.

Normally, the city draws three to four million gallons of water a day from the river.

Despite water-saving measures and use of two fire trucks to provide emergency pumping facilities, Water Superintendent Rodney Stull said the intake was barely keeping up with usage.

Fire Chief Alfred Van Dyne said the city would be "in trouble" if there was a major fire. He charged that the shortage would not have occurred if the water department had made repairs promptly on an intake which was damaged early last year by a barge.

Stull said a dispute over insurance coverage, plus a supply shortage and construction problems had delayed construction.

NCR must pay taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Overturning an Ohio Supreme Court decision the U.S. Supreme Court ruled Monday the National Cash Register Co. must pay state property taxes on goods stored for out-of-state shipment.

The U.S. court said the Dayton-based firm's mere storage of the merchandise did not qualify it for an exemption from the state tax.

"Our prior cases have determined that the protections of the export-import clause of the Constitution are not available until the article at issue begins its physical entry into the stream of exportation," wrote the court. "We find no reason to depart from that settled doctrine."

The case dates back to 1967 when Ohio attempted to collect more than $50,000 in personal property taxes on $1 million worth of National Cash Register machines produced in Ohio for shipment abroad.

The option has been provided since the mobile x-ray unit has been discontinued. The plan would be of no cost to the school district;

an Eastside teacher, for June 3-4. Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor said that June 3 is a teacher work day and that students pick up their grade cards on the following day; and

The bidding:

South West North East
 5♦ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead — ten of hearts.

When a contract depends solely on the favorable distribution of a suit or the success of a finesse, all you can do is hope that the Fates will be kind to you.

However, some hands that seem to depend on luck can be salvaged by good play. The luck element can be reduced at the same time as the chance of success is increased.

Look at this hand where South is in five diamonds and West leads a heart. East wins and plays another heart, which South ruffs.

There's no denying that South now has an excellent shot at the contract. He can draw trumps, play the K-x of clubs and finesse the jack. If the jack wins, he is home. Even if it loses, he may find the clubs divided 3-3 and, failing that, he may find that the spade finesse will work.

All these possibilities added together make South a huge favorite for the contract. Yet, as the cards lie, he would go down by pursuing this course of play. He would lose both finesses and suffer a one-trick defeat.

However, South has a better chance to get home by varying his play slightly. After drawing trumps he should cash the A-K of clubs, deliberately spurning the finesse. In the actual case this safety play succeeds, since East has the doubleton queen.

Note that rejecting the finesse does not hurt South's chances one bit. Thus, had East held x-x of clubs instead of Q-x, declarer would still make the hand by later playing towards the J-x in dummy and so establishing the game-going trick.

The point is that a club finesse is unnecessary if West has the queen and hence should not be attempted. The maximum chance is attained by refusing the finesse.

Salt-Free Diets Can Taste Good

What foods must be avoided in a salt-free diet?

Mrs. L.S. Fla.

Dear Mrs. S.:

Salt is chemically known as sodium chloride. It is the sodium that is the important factor that must be eliminated in a salt-free diet.

Bacon, brains, kidneys, sausages, smoked meats, smoked fish, shellfish and seasoned sauces are among the obvious foods to avoid. Vegetables canned with preservatives, catsup, horseradish and sauerkraut are usually banned in a salt-free diet.

Foods and drinks preserved with sodium benzoate are less obvious, but should be avoided, too.

Carbonated drinks contain far more sodium than is normally recognized. Pretzels, cereals, breads and cakes made with baking soda are hidden sources of sodium.

At first, a salt-free diet seems to be a punishment with too many limitations. There are may excellent salt substitutes available which give flavor to the food.

My wife says she hears voices that keep giving her instructions. We had some trouble in the family. I thought her problem was due to that, but it seems to be getting worse.

Does such a condition ever burn itself out?

Mr. T.M. Wash.

Dear Mr. M.: Hearing voices may be one of the symptoms of deeply rooted psychological disturbance.

The activation of these symptoms by family trouble may be simply coincidence.

You cannot base the future happiness and health of your wife on speculation that this condition will disappear. Even if it does, the likelihood is great that other evidences of psychological disturbances will present themselves.

You must not permit a great deal of time to go by without seeking help from your physician and a psychiatrist or psychologist he will recommend.

Mature adults do not feel that the need for psychological support is any different from the help they need for a physical disorder.

What's wrong with reruns? From the way Howard Miller's rerun of his hour-long Hawaiian show was received at CKFN the other night there seems to be nothing wrong. If you haven't seen this one try to get it booked in for your next meeting. He has two Island shows, one runs about 25 minutes, the other runs close to one hour. His slides are in Carousel slide trays and the Carousel slide projector is connected to a recorder which is designed to present the commentary with musical background and also change the slide at the designated time.

After the showing Howard answered many questions on the photographic techniques he used to capture the beauty of the islands. What film? For general shooting, Howard stated, Agfachrome was his choice. However he used High Speed Ektachrome for shooting with poor light and he indicated that in every case he used Kodak processing with ESP. Kodachrome X was used when shooting from the air to beef up the contrast. What camera? Honeywell Pentax Spotmatic II. Lens? Most of his shots, he said, were made with the SMC Takumar 135 mm, f - 2.5. Howard works well with the 135 millimeter lens. Let's face it: Howard gets great pix because he takes pains to make each exposure say what he wants it to say. Howard is one of those people who strives for perfection. And this boy gets more fun out of the photographic hobby than anyone I know.

While on the topic of photo fun, I've been having a ball shooting up film with my new Honeywell Pentax ES. You feel like you're cheating not having to set the exposure; the camera looks over the scene, figures the exposure, and then tells you what you shot it at as it makes a perfect exposure. That IS almost cheating. If you've been thinking of doing some cheating come in and look over the Pentax ES.

Commission OKs amendments to subdivision regulations

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners adopted proposed amendments to Fayette County's subdivision regulations during an empty public hearing Monday afternoon.

The proposed subdivision regulations, which have been the target of almost endless criticism by developers and builders, were formally adopted in an unusual situation in which not a single spectator attended to voice objection.

The vacant spectator section of the commissioners' office seemed to surprise members of the board, although they quickly pointed out that the public hearing had been advertised on April 18 and May 16.

Commissioner Ray D. Warner moved to adopt the proposed changes, and the motion was seconded by Robert J.

Mace. The motion carried by a unanimous vote.

Since no objections were voiced, commissioners waived the reading of the proposed changes.

CHAIRMAN J. Herbert Perrill said the proposed amendments will become effective immediately upon adoption by the members of the Fayette County Planning Commission.

Through a misunderstanding, the Fayette County Planning Commission has never adopted the present subdivision regulations which govern Fayette County.

The present standards, originally established Oct. 11, 1972, along with the amendments to the regulations will be submitted for consideration of the Fayette County Planning Commission at a public hearing which has been scheduled for 8 p.m. June 18 in the commissioners' office.

The question of the Fayette County Planning Commission's failure to formally adopt the present subdivision regulations surfaced during a court contest last year between developer Jess Gilmore and the Fayette County Board of Commissioners.

It was ruled during the court case that commissioners are not the sole authority for approval of subdivision regulations, that they also must be adopted by the planning commission.

THE COURT ISSUED followed action by the commissioners attempting to prevent Gilmore from proceeding with the development of a subdivision on Inskeep Road, just off Ohio 41-N. Commissioners had disapproved the development because of inadequate drainage, but following the court contest, Gilmore was permitted to complete the housing development.

Commissioners said that if changes should result from the June 18 public hearing on the subdivision regulation changes, the resolution formally adopted Monday afternoon can be rescinded.

In other matters Monday afternoon, the board authorized two persons to attend professional meetings.

Sheriff Donald L. Thompson was authorized to attend the National Sheriff's Convention June 15-20 in Las Vegas, Nev., and O.M. Riegel, county welfare director, was authorized to attend the Central Ohio Welfare Director's Association meeting Thursday in Columbus.

Jeff Boy Scouts award winners

JEFFERSONVILLE — Boy Scout Troop No. 67, of Jeffersonville, was awarded a first place ribbon for its camping exhibit during the annual Scout-o-rama held in Columbus over the weekend.

Two judging periods were held during the event, one on Saturday and another on Sunday, and the Jeffersonville Scouts received a 100 per cent rating both times, according to Scoutmaster Fred Doyle.

Gayland Robinette, junior assistant scoutmaster, and John Milstead, a member of the leadership corps, were primarily responsible for the troop's success.

Doyle said that 20 Scouts from the Jeffersonville troop and some members of the Cub Scout pack attended the two-day event which attracted a total of 200 troops.

A Boy Scout troop from Hillsboro was the only other representative from the Paint Creek Valley District.

Cycle mishap injures youth

A 15-year-old Fayette County boy was injured while riding a motorcycle, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported. City police are investigating a hit-skip accident which damaged a New Vienna woman's car.

Applying the front brakes on the motorcycle Randy Lee Everhart, 823 Millwood Ave., was driving on a gravel driveway, sent the bike out of control, sheriff's deputies reported.

The mishap occurred at 6:30 p.m. Monday and slightly damaged the bike. Everhart was unhurt.

A new car owned by Pamela Sue Penn, of New Vienna, was damaged while parked at the Sohio gas station, corner of Court and North streets, sometime between 9 p.m. and midnight, city police reported.

Police suspect a hit-skip driver caused the damage.

Trash fire doused

A report of a trash fire sent Washington C.H. firemen to 604 Eastern Ave. at 9:44 p.m. Monday.

No one was home at the residence and since the fire was in conflict with the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency's burning regulations, it was extinguished with water. There was no loss.

Colorado man faces charge of drug possession

A 30-year-old Denver, Colo., man has been charged by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department with possession of marijuana.

Sheriff Donald L. Thompson explained that Sgt. William R. Crooks stopped Phillip M. Stapleton at 5:20 p.m. Monday on U.S. 35, near the Creamer Road intersection, because of a traffic violation.

Sgt. Crooks found what turned out to be marijuana lying in plain sight within the car, along with marijuana smoking instruments.

After Stapleton's arrest, he was incarcerated in county jail under $1,000 bond. A hearing will take place today in Washington C.H. Municipal Court on the charge.

Wittenberg chief quits

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — D. G. Kenneth Andeen, president of Wittenberg University since 1969, has resigned.

Andeen submitted his resignation at the university's semiannual board meeting Monday night. He gave no reason for the resignation, which takes effect June 30.

Earl F. Morris, board chairman, said last month, however, that Andeen told him he wanted to return to teaching or church work. Andeen was formerly a minister.

Morris said a committee would be appointed to select a new president.

Realtors hear guest speaker

The Fayette County Board of Realtors met Monday at the Washington Inn to hear a guest speaker from Cincinnati.

Mac Dews Sr., who presided at the meeting, introduced Vernon Curran, vice president of the First National Bank of Cincinnati and program developer at the Great Oaks Joint Vocational School in Cincinnati.

Curran presented a movie "Habit of Winning," which is a pictorial history of the success of Vince Lombardi and the Green Bay Packers football team. Their story is one of the great success stories in the world of business.

Recreation board gets Christman Park section

The Christman Memorial Park Committee agreed Monday to release the completed portion of the park to the City Recreation Board for scheduling of summer recreational activities.

The decision to release the completed portion of the park was announced during a progress report meeting of members of Christman Memorial Park Committee Monday afternoon in the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce office.

Actually, the park will be released to the City Recreation Board, but programs and scheduling of activities will be administered through the Community Education program which has entered into a contract with the city to operate the summer recreation program.

The park project on the south side of Paint Creek on S. Elm Street directly across from the city's sewage treatment plant has been completed with the construction of a regulation size Little League baseball diamond and parking lot.

Only minor refurbishing is needed before the south side of the park can be opened.

Committee members said the park would be restricted to baseball and softball activities.

Plans were also completed for furnishing a water fountain behind the dugouts at the baseball diamond. Pipeline for the water fountain would be stretched from the railroad tracks near St. Colman Cemetery.

The committee members also discussed the need for professional assistance in establishing a master plan for future development of the park. It was felt the master plan was necessary before a fund-raising program could be launched for the park named in memory of the late Clarence A. Christman Jr.

Council meets Wednesday

No legislation has been scheduled to be considered by members of the Washington C.H. City Council at the regular semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

Youth gains fond wish

THOMPSONVILLE, Ill. (AP) — "I didn't realize there were so many kind and helpful people in the United States," Angus Gaither, 18, says.

Valedictorian of the class of 1974 in this rural southern Illinois town, Gaither managed to study and tend the family's 400-acre farm. He's the sole support of his widowed, invalid mother and his partially paralyzed brother.

But he wanted to attend Harvard University without neglecting his family, and he had until Monday to tell Harvard officials whether he'd accept a $5,250-a-year scholarship or remain at home.

His quandary became public through news accounts, and within 24 hours, he'd received about 35 phone calls. "Some are just wishing well, some are offering financial contributions," he said Monday.

The money will go into a trust fund to support his mother and brother and to hire a nurse or housekeeper while Angus is away at Harvard. He'll lease the farm to a neighbor.

Taft revenue rises

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Net revenue climbed 13 per cent to boost Taft Broadcasting Co. to a record $79.4 million for the fiscal year ending March 31.

City Manager Dan Wolford said that although there is no legislation, a number of other matters will be presented.

The city manager will be seeking authorization to make a liability payment to the Police and Firemen's Disability and Pension Fund. The amount due is $7,201.

Authorization will also be requested to make payment to C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., of Columbus, for five engineering services provided to the city.

The engineering services provided and the amounts due are sewer rate ordinance, $4,230; waste water sludge facilities, $810; waste water project for changes required by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, $2,040; preparation of sanitary sewer master plan, $2,879.75, and storm sewer master plan, $2,734.75.

Council members will also receive notice of an application for a C-2 liquor permit in Washington C.H. The applicant is Helfrich Super Market, Inc., 806 Delaware St.
